

The State Highway a Committee will hold a hearing in this city on Friday, October 5th, for the purpose, so far as we can learn by the notice sent out by the state, of deciding on the location of the trunk lines in the county in which the hearings will be held, and the location of routes in adjacent counties will also be taken up and discussed.

It would be interesting to know just what this legislative highway committee has in mind and what their ideas are, but as yet it is apparently impossible to find out. There was some discussion in the fore part of the game about building several federal roads about the state, same to be located where the fellows with them most full designated. They were to start nowhere in particular, cut out most of the towns along the route and end when the money gave out. This plan was discussed to some extent, but it could not be decided who had the most pull, so after several months of hawthailing it was announced that the original plan had been abandoned and another adopted. The new plan was to have the federal road touch at every county seat in the state. It was figured that this would solve the problem, and every county seat would be satisfied, and it would be necessary to run thru other towns, and the chances were that there would be a large number of satisfied people after it was all over.

The mere fact that there was not enough money to build even one-tenth of this amount of road was never mentioned by anybody. As a matter of fact, the money available for road building purposes would not pull a split log drag over the entire highway system as proposed by the legislative committee, let alone build

This amount of road, but this made no difference to anybody in particular. There was the money to spend and it is necessary to decide where to spend it, and it will be necessary to decide soon. The notice that has been sent out by the state for the coming meeting is as follows:

The Wisconsin Highway Commission, having requested the Special Legislative Trunk Highway Committee, consisting of Senators Clarke and Jennings and Assemblymen Petersen, Chapple and Woodard, to consider jointly with the Commission the situation in several counties where there is especial difficulty in determining the proper routes for the state trunk line highways, representatives of the Committee and Commission will jointly make investigations in these several counties and hold public hearings as follows:

For Vernon county, at the courthouse in Viroqua, at 2 p. m., Tuesday, October 2.

For Monroe county at the courthouse in Sparta, at 2 p. m., Wednesday, October 3.

For Juneau county, at the courthouse in Mauston, at 2 p. m., Thursday, October 4.

FOUR BROTHERS PLAYING IN SECOND REGIMENT BAND

Milwaukee Journal: Milwaukee has provided another striking illustration of the part that thousands of men and women of German descent are playing in the present crisis to uphold this government. Mrs. Anna Steinmetz, 3584 1/2 Thirteenth st., Milwaukee, has given four sons to her country, three of them Milwaukee boys. All are members of the Second Wisconsin Infantry band, the largest band that has ever played on the Wisconsin military reservation, as well as being credited as being the best band that ever accompanied Wisconsin troops.

Mrs. Steinmetz was born in this country, but both her parents and those of her husband were born in Germany, and came to Milwaukee nearly seventy years ago. The sons count their presence in the army as a privilege for which they seek personal acknowledgment, but a duty cheerfully met. Theodore A. Steinmetz, leader of the band, is from Marshfield. He has been a member of the Second Regiment band for nineteen years with the exception of one year when he played with the United States Military Academy band at West Point. It was he who brought the Second Infantry band into Wisconsin at San Antonio last winter.

The other members of the Steinmetz family in the band are Supply Sergeant Eugene Steinmetz, Musician Fritz Steinmetz, Musician Emil Steinmetz. The last three enlisted after war was declared. Only one son remains with the mother and he is too young to enlist. While the maximum strength of a military band is supposed to be twenty-eight, there are forty musicians in the Second Regiment band. Practically every member of the band plays in the regimental orchestra, which has twelve drums and the other instruments in proportion.

When notice was sent out last fall that married men in the guard were to be discharged, there were only six members of the Second Regiment band left. The adjacent sent word to Steinmetz, "Get together the best band in the United States army. You will be allowed recruiting expenses."

Musicians anxious to serve their country were also anxious to serve under the leader who made the reputation in Texas during the border service and looked to Marshfield to enlist. As a result eighteen cities are represented in Steinmetz's organization.

Leaving a difference between production and increased population a chain of 30 per cent.

There are more than 20,000,000 men under arms, wearing out six times the consumption of wool. As the wool available wool of the world is certainly summed to the last ounce. Cotton, linen fabrics may be used, but wool will long as it is possible to secure it for forces. But there is no real substitute for wool in the production of uniforms for winter campaigning, especially in the mountain districts, wool is the only material.

Chris Nelson, who has been employed as lumber grader at the Pillsbury Co's plant for the past nine years, resigned his position last week and departed Saturday for Madison where he will spend the winter at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Geo. Lapprell.

LOCAL FARMERS TO GROW WINTER WHEAT

Forty bushels of Wisconsin Padgro No. 2 winter wheat have been distributed to growers in this vicinity by the First National Bank of Grand Rapids. This is a part of the state-wide cooperative plan for securing larger amounts of high yielding seed wheat with which to increase the production of this much-needed cereal.

Based on assessor's figures, Wood county harvested 100 acres of winter wheat this year. The government asks for 130 acres in 1918. Local farmers who grow the new wheat for seed this year signed an agreement with the bank which binds them to keep the seed separate from all other grain on the farm and sow it for the seed next year. If re-distributed to other farmers, these men must in turn agree to retain the variety in its pure state for next year's seed. This wheat will be re-seeded until enough seed wheat is available for general sale in this and other states.

This wheat, developed by years of painstaking effort by the state agricultural experiment station has averaged 45 bushels on a four-year test, and is also popular with millers on account of its bread making qualities.

About 4,000 bushels of this variety of Wisconsin-grown wheat were distributed this fall by more than 100 banks in various parts of the state. Wisconsin, which the average wheat acreage is small, was asked by the government to increase its sowings 29 per cent. The principal increases were recommended to areas where farmers were already large and farmers are accustomed to growing wheat and have the machinery for handling it. A material increase in the production of oats and corn was also advocated in places where heavy since much wheat can be sown to advantage in standing corn, on oat stubble, or on land from which the corn crop has been removed for the silage or for fodder.

Winter wheat does best on rather heavy loams and clays. Good wheat crops are grown upon the well-drained, heavy red clays of the Wisconsin Superior region. The areas especially adapted for wheat in Wisconsin are: counties adjoining Lake Winnebago, the lower Fox, River, Green Bay and Lake Michigan, Polk, Ashland and Barron and adjacent counties; and most of the counties in the southern part of the state.

The adaptability of these soils to winter wheat has been demonstrated on the station farms at Madison, near Ashland and Superior and by a large number of farmers throughout the wheat growing sections.

PROPOSED LAW TO HIT THE OWNERS OF AUTOMOBILES

Just how the purchaser and the builder of an automobile are to pay the taxes on the new law is hard to guess.

The conference on the war revenue bill at Washington have agreed, subject to action by the house and senate, that the tax shall be $500 a tax of $15; $500 to $750, $20; $750 to $1,000, $25. For each additional $250 on the selling price of the house the tax is to be carried, almost doubled, but the tax is to be shifted to the manufacturers of new cars. This is to be done through a provision in the bill that every car licensed under a state shall make return.

This owner is to tell when and where he bought his car, how long he has owned it. The law levies a 10 per cent a year for five years of the sale price of his car. After that period the car holds its value.

NOISY CUT-OUTS MUST GO

As the use of muffler cut-outs is becoming a nuisance, the members of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce have voted unanimously for their elimination. They are they built in the future, so far as they can be operated from the driver's seat. With more than four million cars in use, and supplying a great service in the transportation of the individual and of materials, the use of muffler cut-outs is unfair to the public and adds an unnecessary noise to American life. Cars have ample power so that the slight increase in speed which may come from the use of cut-outs is of no importance. There may be times in adjusting motors where a cut-out is useful, but in such cases, it can be operated from outside the car.

Almost all of the 110 makers in the Chamber of Commerce do not cut muffler cut-outs to their present cars and all makers voted that they should be eliminated in new products. The chamber at their meeting in New York on Saturday adopted the following resolution: "Whereas, Members of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce are of the opinion that the attachment of muffler cut-outs to motor vehicles and do not fit them to the cars and trucks they manufacture, or will discontinue doing so on their product for 1918; and

"Whereas, The use of the cut-out is unnecessary, annoying and dangerous to other users of the highway and objectionable to residents along them;

"Resolved: That the board of directors recommends that all members of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce refrain from attaching muffler cut-outs to their cars for the season of 1918 and thereafter and that no cars be sold by them after Jan. 1, 1918, with cut-outs attached, or that where cut-outs are attached they be made inoperative from the driver's seat."

UNDERGOING CHANGES

Down at Nekosha the main street has been torn up in great shape and it is practically impossible to navigate that thoroughfare since the workmen are preparing to put down a concrete pavement and as the grade of the street is being changed the street cars and every thing changed. A large gang of men is employed on the street in doing the preliminary work.

FELSCH GIVEN BIG SENDOFF BY CHICAGO SCRIBE

Maclean MacLean in the Chicago Evening Post Saturday gives Happy Felsch, Milwaukee scribe, who will give a course to perform in the coming world's series, a big sendoff, something which Happy is well deserving of. MacLean classes Felsch as one of the three greatest scribes in the nation, the other two being Speaker and Cobb. He pens the following: "Centerfield rivalry in the coming world series brings to light two really great players in Happy Felsch and Ben Cobb. The latter is a scribe in position that considerable argument will arise."

"Some years ago Kauff was called the 'Cobb of the Federal League.' About the same time Happy Felsch was considered a rising young outfielder. At the present time the writer considers Felsch one of the three greatest all-around gardeners of the nation the other two being Speaker and Cobb. Happy is just a shade behind Felsch. Then come the others."

"It's difficult to keep from being overenthusiastic when speaking of Felsch. A large number of people consider Felsch's only rival in coming to going after and getting fly balls. He covers an amazing amount of ground and makes it look easy."

A person knows when Kauff is chasing a fly. Felsch does it in such a manner it is almost unnoticeable. Felsch covers more ground. Kauff may be faster than Happy on a straightaway home run, but he isn't fast on the ball field.

"In only one respect do we believe Kauff has it on his great rival. This is in base stealing. Whether he is going to do it or not, he is a base stealer. In the other homes we will do without meat for supper."

On Wednesday we can have our bread, or muffins. Some of us do not eat bread at all, and others very little. To that class Wednesday will be like a day of no bread, but we can get along without it.

If we look at this suggestion as an order some of us may feel that it is an infringement upon our personal liberty, but if we look at it in the right light, and realize that it is only one way in which we who stay at home may serve our country, we will see that it is a good idea.

On Tuesdays, when we long for meat, and on Wednesdays, when we crave wheat bread, all we have to do is to think of the thousands of men who are serving their country in the line of duty, and who are offering their lives for that sacred cause. We will do without meat and without wheat bread, but we will go along without it.

That ought to be incentive for a meatless and wheatless day.

WISCONSIN LOYALTY LEAGION TO ORGANIZE HERE FRIDAY

A meeting will be held at the Elk Club in this city on Friday evening for the purpose of organizing a county branch of the Wisconsin Loyalty Legion for Wood county. The organization is one that exists in the organization of giving loyal support to the United States, to its soldiers, sailors and people in general.

E. C. Pors, Marshfield is at the head of this movement in the county and will be here to preside at the meeting to be held on the occasion of the organization of the Legion. The matter will be discussed at the time of the meeting and it is a point to be present and take part in the proceedings.

THE SEED CORN SITUATION

Have you a supply of seed corn laid by for next year? Better be thinking of that now. If there is anything in your fields that will do, save every ear of it. What you do not save now will be worth nothing next spring. After you have saved every available bushel of seed, do not forget to cure it in such a way that it will show about 95 per cent germination.

Another thing to think about is your wood pile and coal bin. Coal is and will be high. The same is true of wood. If you have a wood pile, get out every possible cord of wood. We will pay money in next spring. United States government is buying horses. If there are enough good horses for sale in Wood county, the government will send a party to buy them. Know what you have to sell, and if it seems worth while, I will get in touch with the government on the proposition.

CLAUS CHILBERG BRINGS HOME BRIDE

Popular Young Amber Farmer Goes to Wisconsin to Marry

Scottville, (Mich.) News: Claus Chilberg, one of the progressive and popular young farmers of Amber township, has recently given utterance to his wish to marry. He is now on his way to Wisconsin to marry Miss Louise Omholt of Grand Rapids, Wisconsin.

Mr. Chilberg slipped away to Grand Rapids something over a week ago and last Sunday returned, bringing with him the young lady whom many friends here had known as Miss Omholt, whom he now introduced as his bride.

After a brief visit at home in Amber, Mr. and Mrs. Chilberg continued their honeymoon trip to Reed City, where they will remain for a few days. They will make their home for the present upon the Chilberg homestead, one of the finest stock and general farming farms in the county.

The pretty romance culminating in this marriage had its beginning last fall when Miss Omholt came to Amber to spend the winter with friends. During that visit she was not only a guest but a hostess of friends who welcome her return and wish for her and hers every happiness.

EMPLOYED BY CITY

Merrill Herald: The council, at its adjourned meeting held at the city hall last evening, voted, almost unanimously, to employ Prof. F. L. Bliss, as director of the juvenile band at a salary of $5 per month.

The Juvenile Band now has thirty-eight members, all young boys who are showing considerable musical talent. The organization was started last year, but it was found necessary to drop some for a while at last.

Delbert Bliss, son of F. L. Bliss, formerly of this city, now a member of the 5th Regiment Band located at Camp Douglas. Mr. Bliss, because of his ability, has been appointed principal musician, a position next to the leader.

STATE COUNCIL ON MEATLESS TUESDAY

To the Editor: Going without meat on Tuesday and without wheat bread or pastry on Wednesday is not so much in the way of self-denial for the nation, but it means a great deal.

That is all Food Administrator Magnus Swenson has asked the people of Wisconsin to do in his proclamation. The plan has been approved by the State Council of Defense, and it will be approved by people everywhere once they have considered its possibilities.

To many the meatless day will be the most disturbing for the long established table routine in their homes. When the young wife cooked her first meatless day she was shocked at the kind of meat she served. Ever since her first thought at meal preparing or planning time has been meat. Patriotic people will of course agree to carry out Mr. Swenson's request and it will be easy. Some families like meat for breakfast, but a cereal—and it can be wheat on Tuesday—with rolls and coffee will be all right until noon. In some homes dinner is served at 12 o'clock and is the big meal of the day. In others lunch is served at noon and dinner at 6, and the last meal is the big meal. In the homes at noon we will miss the meat at first, but we can get along. Luncheon at 6, then, will be a week thereafter as far as the war is concerned. In the other homes we will do without meat for supper.

On Wednesday we can have our bread, or muffins. Some of us do not eat bread at all, and others very little. To that class Wednesday will be like a day of no bread, but we can get along without it.

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS TO ORGANIZE ON OCTOBER 7th

The Men's Bible Class of the Congregational church will reorganize for the new year work a week from next Sunday, October 7. At this meeting special plans for a new year's work will be presented and discussed. A special leader will be secured for the occasion and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance of the men. A hearty invitation is extended to all men already affiliated with some other class.

HEROIC FRANCE; OUR ALLIES IN ACTION

Those who want to see the latest in motion pictures should save a date when the above entitled film is shown at Daly's Theatre in Grand Rapids. The date that has been selected for this great film is Friday, September 28, and there is no question but what it will give the people some of the greatest thrills that have ever been possible by the projection of motion pictures. Heroic France shows the battlefields where our boys are going, and will give a better idea of the appearance of things over there than any word picture painted by the greatest novelist could ever do. It shows the battlefields from an aeroplane, the Curtains of Fire, the Sausage Battalion, Gas Shells Breaking, the French Fleet, the Italian Fleet, the Balkan Front, and a thousand other scenes of interest. There are nine big reels and it will be here for only one day, Friday, September 28th. Prices of admission, 15c and 25c.

WILL TRY TO SAVE FISH

At a meeting of the Portage County Fish and Game Protective association held recently at Stevens Point, a committee was appointed to investigate and ascertain if there is any way to prevent refuse sulphite from being put into the Wisconsin river which is believed to be the cause of so many fish dying.

We do not know whether there is any way to prevent the putting of refuse into the river, but we do know that there are laws which prohibit the dumping of refuse into the water in the river is certainly a disgrace to everybody connected with the work of polluting it. It seems like the heaviest fine for polluting the water is $100,000, only to allow somebody else to pollute the water to such an extent that a fish cannot live in it.

Of course, the paper industry is a big business, and probably means more to the communities along the river than the few fish that would be taken from the waters of the Wisconsin river. But we do know that the waste of a bit of ranting around each year, and these same paper mill men do their share of the ranting, and when it is all over we have accomplished nothing at all. It is apparent that the man with the paper mill knew all the time that he was a blooming hypocrite and never meant anything that he said and never intended that anything should be accomplished in the matter.

APPEALS TO THE PRESIDENT

By the Regulations of the President governing appeals, the claim of appeal must be filed with the district board and cannot be received if sent direct to the President, the Provost Marshal, or any other place than the district board itself.

Papers, evidence and affidavits not considered by the district board can not be considered on appeal from the district board.

The only cases in which there is an appeal to the President are cases in which a claim for discharge on the ground of engagement in agriculture or industry has been made in the district board. There is no appeal to the President from the action of the local board in dependency or other cases whose determination is within the jurisdiction of the local board.

All attempts to appeal cases other than those involving the decision of the district board on agriculture or industry exemptions from whatever source received: all affidavits, letters, arguments, evidence, papers or other matter not considered by the district board; all appeals made to the President direct or sent to any other official or person in Washington will have to be returned to the sender.

NEW DAM STARTED

Stevens Point Journal: Preliminary work on the big enterprise to be established here by Grand Rapids and Rockford capitalists is now actually under way.

W. E. Uie, who will superintend the construction of the Jackson Mill dam, has about 20 men at work. They have already erected an office building and also cleared the land on both sides of the river, preparatory to the laying of the tracks and the storing of materials.

"Slush boards" have been placed on the present dam and the water is now within four inches of the point it will reach when the new structure is completed. Mr. Uie stated this morning that he had made an inspection of the land upon which the dam is to be built, and found that the water will not come up to the stakes as set by the engineers.

DEATH OF FRANK BABCOCK

Frank Babcock died at his home on the east side last Friday morning after an illness of a year or more, the cause of death being cancer. He was 52 years of age, having been born on the 9th of June, 1855, at Wausau. Mr. Babcock and family have lived in this city during the past two years, during most of which time he has been an inveterate sportsman.

He is survived by his wife and two children, also has a brother living at Wausau, and one sister, Mrs. Guy Gels of this city. The funeral will be held Monday from 8:30 a.m. to 10:00 a.m. at the residence of Mr. Babcock, 1000 W. Main st., Rev. Wm. Reding officiating.

SPECIAL PROMOTION DAY PROGRAM

Next Sunday morning at 9:45 will occur the annual Promotion Day exercises of the Congregational church school. At this time each year the classes are promoted to the next year in the graded system of study work. The exercises will feature largely with the graduation of pupils from one department to another, and a very appropriate and interesting program will accompany such promotion. The Protector of Finance

Tales of Resilius Marvel, Guardian of Bank Treasures

By WELDON J. COBB

THE GIRL WHO VANISHED

WHEN Resilius Marvel, head of the nation's largest bank, came into the office that morning, he found a note pinned to his desk. It was a note from a woman, a woman who had been a friend of his for many years. The note was from a woman who had been a friend of his for many years. The note was from a woman who had been a friend of his for many years.

The note was from a woman who had been a friend of his for many years. The note was from a woman who had been a friend of his for many years. The note was from a woman who had been a friend of his for many years.

The note was from a woman who had been a friend of his for many years. The note was from a woman who had been a friend of his for many years. The note was from a woman who had been a friend of his for many years.

The note was from a woman who had been a friend of his for many years. The note was from a woman who had been a friend of his for many years. The note was from a woman who had been a friend of his for many years.

The note was from a woman who had been a friend of his for many years. The note was from a woman who had been a friend of his for many years. The note was from a woman who had been a friend of his for many years.

WHY KISSES GIVE A THRILL

It is When Chemical Elements in a Man and a Woman Blend Properly That They Are Really Mated.

An eminent psychopath has likened a kiss to the stroking of a cat, and says that the "louger" cat is the same woman the less the thrill you get in return.

Love is an electro-chemical action, and he who says the same effect that is derived from a kiss can be obtained inspected, and on the reversed side, naturally, a tiny protuberance corresponded.

"Nobody but Warner Clay ever did that," declared Marvel. It is the test, indeed, as on the returned checks, no on the one claimed forged—the writer deposed the pen point to get a momentary staying power. Those checks were signed by the hand of Warner Clay, all of them, 953 included.

"In other words," I exclaimed, "our client is his own forger!"

"You have it," assented Resilius Marvel, "precisely. We shall not have to retrace our steps to that conclusion, unless we are forced into a court of law. The point of interest now is Geraldine Farrar."

"The girl cashed the check—why was she given it? She left the city at once—what impelled her? She went into obscurity, leaving no trace behind her—why?" challenged Marvel.

"The man's rare humanity spoke out in his questioning, determined face. Viewed in a cold-blooded way, the bank's interest caused at the discovery of a method of saving its money. A new strain had come into the case—mystery, maybe misery. Cursing or foul play, Resilius Marvel, I saw, was determined to go to the bottom of the proposition.

"When I questioned Clay about his missing ward," resumed Marvel, "his sorrow was touching. He plainly indicated that she had set out on a journey to receive a fortune at one of the banks of the city. She had no friends, no other relatives than himself, he averred. She had seemed to share his lonely life for the sake of comfort and home. She had had some very distant relatives once, he believed, in far western Canada. One thing I noticed: he was sure in his mind that she could not be found. Circumstances or her own plans were placing her at a sure distance. I insisted on visiting her room. He did not demur. It was a miracle of good order. I found nothing to inspire me in my search—he had prepared for all that—nothing except a scrap of crumpled-up paper lying where he had placed it. It was a scrap of paper, a scrap of paper, a scrap of paper. It was a scrap of paper, a scrap of paper, a scrap of paper.

fellow, suggesting the South American. He would scan every person who went aboard, and then, as he evidently found not what he sought, would take an eager swooping survey of the wharf, and even beyond it, at pedestrians and vehicles as though in a torment of expectation and suspense.

Finally the last bell rang. Some belated passengers got hurriedly aboard, the gangplank was dropped, and the little dark man stood in profound dejection, evidently suffering under the weight of a severe disappointment.

"The lady is still in Galveston. She was to have gone on that steamer," Marvel advised me. "We should have gone with her. As it is—"

Just then the wiry foreigner gave a start, a jump. He ran forward, his eyes fixed on an automobile that had come up to the wharf. And then my own glance was riveted upon the machine as well. The chauffeur had evidently just learned that they were three minutes too late for the steamer. His passengers looked sorely disturbed. They were two; a tall dark man with great mustaches and a scarred warrior-like face, and a young lady.

This was Miss Geraldine Farrar, and I knew her at a glance. There was a change in her manner since I had last seen her, and in her face as well, as compared with the photograph Marvel carried in his pocket. Her eyes expressed animation, her whole pose was one of energy. Her face was deliciously flushed with excitement. She spoke rapidly to her dignified escort, and then to the chauffeur. The latter received some hurried instructions. He seized the wheel and at once the machine sped away from the wharf.

The wiry foreigner who had seemingly been watching for just this arrival ran forward, looked about for another auto, found none for hire, and stood on the trail of the speeding machine at a gait worthy of a crack professional sprinter.

"This way!" spoke Marvel, seizing my arm and directing a swift dash toward the car.

"I thank you," the foreigner expressed in a way. We have four big boxes loaded to the brim with fire arms, weapons and burglar tools confiscated from prisoners. Once a year we load them on a boat, run out a few miles and sink them. We started today, but the boat has gone wrong. Again, we are ordered not to touch the limit this time, as some of the plunder has been fished up in the past."

"I see," I observed. "It would be a speedy job for you. What do you say—would you let us transfer the rubbish to The Arrow and take our task off our hands—for a consideration, of course?"

"Gladly," I answered. "I have a car to rent you. Just return it to right and come to headquarters tomorrow with your bill and I'll O. K. it."

To make a long story short, I was all ready to start on my cruise with that man and girl came aboard. The escort offered me $500 to make a run for a point in the Caribbean Sea. It was a temptation, and I agree that now, we believe that we are command and away with the girl before I realized where this week at advantage. I had left aboard the yacht. This is all except that I do not intend to send in any bill to the Galveston police department."

There is a little more to add," remarked Marvel, after the man had left. "The two satchels those people had were swept overboard. From what the yachtsman learned they were bound for Separation Island—a reminder of that word pencilled on the slip of paper—remember?—'Separation.'"

Resilius Marvel was a quick thinker and never slow in action. He told us the very next day, a steam launch at our disposal and a man in charge who knew the Caribbean like a book.

Resilius Marvel would not have been what he was had he started on the cruise unaware of what he was running into. Separation Island was one of those innumerable dots on the water north of Venezuela, sometimes an appendage of the state, sometimes a separate entity, sometimes a deposit of the island nation's large deposits of a silica nature of sound commercial value, was quite level. Grouped on that portion in the brilliant sunlight was a small army of about one hundred men. As we neared them we stared and wondered.

Never was a coterie of apparent warriors so equipped. There was scarcely a man who had not at his belt a dozen revolvers, and in his hand a knife, dagger, or dagger, pistol, revolver, sawed-off gun. Then I guessed what had happened—the craft had discovered that fearful armament. "The Arrow" and had utilized it to the limit.

We were not menaced, only stared at as we ran ashore. The first man to greet us officially was Colonel Alois Gaspard.

When he knew that we knew of The Arrow and of its contraband load, he was open, smiling and friendly. It was about to do some laborous explaining, when a gun boomed from the promontory and a white flag was waved from that natural rock battlement.

"It is all settled—what the dread army of our troops, victoriously armed to the teeth, did I think, and the cash," declared our host. "Gentlemen, your missions and you shall be seen to grandly by Senator Rodney Vincent, who will soon be at your service."

And just then the mysterious one, "the girl who had vanished," appeared.

"I have come to see Miss Geraldine Farrar," explained Resilius Marvel. "I have seen her, and her wondering eyes were soon gazing inquiringly into his reassuring ones."

A plain man, Resilius Marvel told a plain story, to wit: Incredibly, then, he told her that she was the daughter of a man who had been a friend of his for many years.

She was with truth itself, as she explained that Warner Clay had been a friend of his for many years.

Warner Clay had been a friend of his for many years. Warner Clay had been a friend of his for many years. Warner Clay had been a friend of his for many years.

combining the quest of health with a moderate income easily earned through running a pleasure yacht.

And yet you will discern that nothing could be so far fetched as piracy, or police interference, or affiliation with anything criminal or revolutionary. And yet you will soon see that unwittingly I was made an agent in a striking episode that may turn out singular, sensational and fairly international in its scope."

The speaker chose good language, and was clear and direct in his narrative.

"The sky was dull and lowering, the bay choppy and streaked with yellow splashes, when a flat boat came creeping along the shore in a way that told me she was crippled in some part of her running gear. This was the afternoon of the day you gentlemen saw me. There were four of them, the boatmen and a captain. One of them I observed wore a captain's button, and as the unwieldy craft came nearer I recognized him."

"Hello," he hailed, "I know you," and he smiled and waved his hand in a friendly fashion. "Remember?" "Captain Discei, I believe."

"Father of the bride whose party you took down the coast last week, added the official. "You ask only know your business, my friend, but you take such good care of your passengers that they have none but the pleasantest memories. By the way—"

"A sudden idea seemed suggested to my official friend as his eye rested on my trim and natty craft. He spoke some words to his companion and the police boat was soon alongside."

"See here, Mr. Butler," he said to me, drawing me to one side, "you would guess a long time before you fixed out what we've got in the hold of that old tub."

"Yuh?"

"I think so. Contraband expresses it, in a way. We have four big boxes loaded to the brim with fire arms, weapons and burglar tools confiscated from prisoners. Once a year we load them on a boat, run out a few miles and sink them. We started today, but the boat has gone wrong. The estate was worth over $100,000 but could not be readily turned into cash.

"I needed money," she confessed, blushing. "I was engaged to Mr. Rodney Vincent, who owns this island, who has just been negotiating with a false claimant who stole all our weapons and preserved possession of the fortress. Mr. Clay paid me $30,000 cash for my property. The deed on record in Baldwin county, Alabama, will verify that fact. He knew that I would be practically out of the world on this lonely island, and trusted to the impulse of greed to cover my name with a crime, thinking I would not be located."

We found Mr. Rodney Vincent a most estimable young man who worshipped the ground that Miss Geraldine Farrar trod on—the fair young girl who had brought her fortune to the rescue of the dynamite. A thought of the sanguinary Colonel Gaspard, who wanted to blow the intruders clear off the island.

I have pleasant memories yet of the night of celebration we passed on Separation Island. We went north the next day, prepared to clear the fair name of Warner Clay's ward of all reproach.

When Resilius Marvel, arrived at home, went to confront our bank client with the evidences of his perjury, I never saw a man turn so crimson—or so yellow. The man left the city as soon as he could sell his property—"tagged" to every bank within the clearing house.

In the Island of Sardinia Headgear Is Employed for a Multiplicity of Purposes.

Sardinia, that large island which lies directly south of and very close to Corsica, and about a day's steamer journey from Sicily, is so filled with romance, picturesque scenes and odd customs that know no many nations, one wonders whether he's still in the present or wandering the past of medieval days. For every nation that held ascendancy over the Mediterranean left in Sardinia some trace of its day. Indeed, the population of this island retains in its speech and customs vivid memories of nearly every conqueror.

Having a strong regard for woman-kind, the Sardinians are among the most polite of peoples. As you pass about the roads you find them invariably courteous and hospitable. Everyone wishes you to stop and break bread with them, and if you hurry by the women, the children and the old

Bernard was present at a dinner party. In a speech some of the guests brought their children. One little girl wanted to play with Bernard's toys, but he was selfish and wouldn't let her.

"Now, Bernard," said mother, "you must be a little gentleman."

"Yes," said he, "but she must be a lady."

Dr. Samuel Johnson used the phrase "Father of Waters" before it was applied to the Mississippi river. In the twenty-fifth chapter of Johnson's "Rasselas" the prince addresses the Nile as "great father of waters, it that collect thy floods through eight thousand golden cities."

When a "shooting star" strikes the atmosphere, its energy or motion is transformed into heat, from the radiation produced by the air, and the "star" is literally burned to ashes. These ashes fall upon us in a continual shower, and constitute the greater part of what is commonly known as "falling stars."

An eminent psychopath has likened a kiss to the stroking of a cat, and says that the longer you kiss the same woman the less the thrill you get in return.

INSTITUTE TO TRAIN THE RED CROSS WORKERS

At least one institute for the training of volunteers for Red Cross civilian relief work will be held in Wisconsin this fall. Prof. J. L. Gillin, of the University of Wisconsin extension division, has just been appointed state director of Red Cross home service institutes in Wisconsin and announced the institute on his return from a conference of home service directors in Washington.

The institute, which will be held in Milwaukee and will be of six weeks' duration, will aid in training volunteers who wish to aid in the work of assisting soldiers' families. The course will consist of lectures and work among families that need help and will be conducted in much the same way as the course for civilian relief workers which was given at the university summer session. The need of maintaining the moral standards of the family will be emphasized rather than financial relief.

Each conference in the state which wishes to have a civilian relief worker trained will send the volunteer to the Milwaukee institute. It is possible also that several more institutes will be held in the state to meet the growing need of civilian relief. The university extension division will cooperate in these institutes and may conduct similar courses in various parts of the state.

MECHANISTS, AMATEUR WIRELESS OPERATORS AND COOKS AND BAKERS

wanted at once to fill up the ranks of the navy, now nearly 150,000 strong.

Men who know these things—who can go right to work for Uncle Sam with only a short preliminary training—are offered splendid conditions of enlistment.

Men with trades can enlist in the Naval Reserve, which means that they will have to serve only during the war. Pay begins as soon as a man enlists, and the navy is the highest paid branch of the military service. The very lowest pay in the navy is now $32.60 a month, paid apprentice seamen, and goes up to $100 a month.

The pay of a man in the navy is almost all clear profit, as Uncle Sam pays board and lodging and gives newly enlisted men $60 worth of clothing free.

Mechanists who have had experience with marine engines, and who are able to perform work with various tools of a machine shop and can do bench work are eligible to enlist as first class men. The pay is $66.50 a month, with all living expenses and clothing free. Mechanists of the second class—men who have not had experience at sea—will be promoted to first class if they prove their ability on board ship. Chief mechanists, who have charge of the engine room, are paid $83 a month.

Young men who have a high school education and who have a fair knowledge of wireless telegraphy and electricity can enlist as electricians. Young men who make good will have a chance to go to the special Naval Radio School at Harvard University. The course at Harvard is for four months, and embraces military drill, as well as technical and other subjects. The men will take their meals at Memorial hall and use the Harvard gymnasium as a dormitory.

Men who have had a little experience in lumber or construction camps as cooks, or railroad men who have cooked for the caboose, are eligible to enlist as cooks. It is not necessary to be a hotel chef to enlist as a navy cook. A man who can serve in the navy as a cook will be a professional and will have a trade upon which he can rely to give him a good living, wherever he may be.

Men with trades should enquire at the Navy Recruiting office, Milwaukee, or any substitution, for further particulars.

KILLED BY A TRAIN

NEAR PORT EDWARDS

An unknown man was killed by the train on the St. Paul road just below the Port Edwards yards on Tuesday evening, the remains being picked up by the train crew and taken to Nekeosha, where they were taken charge of by Undertaker Voss.

Sheriff Northington and District Attorney Roberts were notified of the affair and Mr. Northington went there and looked into the matter with a view to discovering the man's identity and finding out how he met his death.

Upon his return the sheriff reported that the man was apparently about 35 years of age, was fairly dressed and had with him a suit case with some clothes in it. There was no indication that the man was a tramp, but there was nothing about him that would lead to identify him. He was pretty badly cut up, the wheels having run across his chest and almost severed the body.

It is thought that the train going down last night is the one that struck the man, he having been picked up by that crew and taken to Nekeosha. From what can be gathered, it is supposed that the man was lying on the track when the train struck him, and this may not have been the case.

Later—Since the above was written Sheriff Northington and District Attorney Roberts have been investigating the case, and they find that the man's name was W. Matinowski, and that he had worked a couple of days at Port Edwards and had also put in two days working on the section, but had been unable to hold the job and had been let out.

The theory is that the man committed suicide, as witnesses have stated that they found him lying on the track on Tuesday evening and lying on the track on Tuesday evening and lying on the track on Tuesday evening.

The dead man is supposed to have a sister living on 24th street in Chicago and a telegram was sent to that address in the effort to locate her, but as yet nothing has been heard from her and it is not known whether or not there is such a person.

How to Have City Water Supply Conveniences

DO YOU want all the conveniences a city water supply would give you? Running water in your bathroom? In the kitchen? For the lawn? Garden? Bars? Watering pressure? You can have an abundance of water under strong pressure, for any desired connections, if you install the Kewanee System of Water Supply.

With the Kewanee System, the tank is located in the cellar, on the ground, and the water is delivered by air pressure to the elevated or static tank to take, freeze, overflow or collapse. Water can be pumped by hand, gas, electricity, or by any other means. The Kewanee System is a complete Kewanee System, and is the only one of its kind. Complete Kewanee Systems are shown at the Kewanee Sales Office. Complete Kewanee Systems are successful operations.

COOKS AND BAKERS ARE WANTED FOR U. S. NAVY

WANTED—Cooks and bakers for the United States Navy. With the navy rapidly reaching its war strength of 150,000 men and the big interned German liners repaired and ready to transport hundreds of thousands of men to France, the navy is in need of cooks and bakers to handle their end of the job of winning the war.

With thousands and thousands of hungry mouths to be fed the government is offering splendid opportunities to the men who know how to cook or bake.

Pay begins as soon as a man enlists. There are no pay-offs because of bad business or hard times. Whether a man is sick or well, his pay goes on just the same. Everything is free, board and lodging, and the first outfit of clothing.

The man who joins the mess branch of the navy helps not only his country but himself as well.

Cooks and bakers will be enlisted in the navy rapidly, which enables a man to serve for the period of the war only. Aliens, citizens of friendly nations, who have taken out their first papers will be granted full citizenship after a year's satisfactory service.

The pay of a ship's cook, first class, is $66 a month, which is all clear profit, as board and lodging is free. A second class cook earns $62 a month, while a third class cook is given $41.

A baker, first class, is given $55.50 while a second class man gets $46.50. Mess attendants earn from $41 to $35.50 a month.

A man with a trade is given better pay in the navy, everything considered, than he can make working at home.

Enlist in the commissary staff of the navy and help feed the men who are fighting for America!

SCHOOL TRANSPORTATION LAW

Opening of the rural schools of the state has attracted attention to a new law passed at the last session of the legislature which greatly extends the scope of the old statute providing for transporting children to school. The state superintendent of schools has issued the following statement on the subject: "Transportation must be provided for at least six months, and no district will be permitted to draw aid from the state for the transportation of children that are conveyed more than two and less than three miles; fifteen cents a day for children transported more than three and less than four miles; and twenty-five cents a day for children transported more than four miles.

"An important provision is to the effect that in the case of the child who lives more than three miles from any school, the school board of the district may in its discretion, in lieu of transportation, board the children under certain conditions and restrictions near the school. The state will pay aid for such children as thought they were transported.

"In case the electors of a school district refuse to vote to incur the cost of transporting children living more than two miles from school, the statute provides that the parents or guardians of such children may transport them to school, and that the district must pay the cost of the transportation of such children transported to school, provided the transportation was furnished and the child attended while being transported for at least five months. The state will reimburse the district ten cents for each child transported. This is an important feature.

"Heretofore the parent, no matter how far he might live from the school, could not secure transportation unless the electors of the district voted in favor of furnishing it. Under this law, if the electors are opposed to transportation, the parents can transport their children and the district must pay the amount fixed by statute for each child."

O. LeRoux of the town of Sherry was among the pleasant callers at the Tribune office Saturday. Mr. LeRoux reports that the farmers up his way all had pretty good crops in spite of the early frost. Up in the clay country they do not depend a great deal on corn as a crop, and the result was that they did not have as much to lose as some of those on the sand.

Guy Getis came up from Camp Douglas Monday to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law, Frank Babcock. Mr. Getis reports that he is getting along nicely down at Camp Douglas, although there are indications that there will not be much doing there this coming winter. He departed on Wednesday for Wausau where he will operate a billiard hall along the same lines as the one he has had here and at Camp Douglas.

According to the press reports it is probable that our boys who went south with Troop G will become artillerymen instead of a part of the cavalry. The boys are excited when they joined. This is owing to the fact that cavalry has practically become a thing of the past, there being no place in the present war for this class of men. Artillery and machine guns do the greater part of the work on the firing line, and the horse has very little to do, the packing back of the lines being mostly taken care of with motor cars.

METHODIST CHURCH RECEPTION

There was a reception at the Methodist church on Tuesday evening to celebrate the return of Rev. C. C. Becker and wife to this city, and the occasion was one that will long be remembered by those in attendance. There were about two hundred that took part in the festivities, which consisted of music and speaking and quite a lengthy program in the church auditorium, and after this was over those present repaired to the church parlors where a general good time was indulged in by all.

NOW IS THE TIME

Select your Fall and Winter Coats, Suits, Millinery and Sweaters

—AT—

COHEN BROS. DEPT. STORE

We have a larger assortment of Ladies' and Misses' Coats than we ever had before.

With a touch of Fall in the evening air and mornings crisp and cool the nearer approach of chilly weather brings to mind the need of warmer garments.

Our Coats are made in the new and fashionable weaves and colors and are all man-tailored embodying the latest features that make them an assortment easy to select from.

The great Coat demand is for the Full Length. The large collars being shown resemble a cape in size and appearance. Some are of Fur in the form of a collarette attached to coat. The assortment of fabrics is rather limited but on account of the scarcity this is to be expected. The most important fabrics are Wool Velour, Novelty Zibeline Effects, Broad Cloth, Light Weight Kersey, Fancy Mixtures, Plush and other pile fabrics.

Prices range from $2.50 to $55.00.

New Fall Millinery

You will want to know just what the Millinery Vogue for Fall is. Our Millinery Department always tells the story of Styles — Materials — Colors — Shapes and Lowest Prices for the new season in a manner that will convince you of our ability to serve you intelligently and well.

One of the most popular colors for early fall is Purple; then comes bright Red, which is also called Military Red; Sand and Nigger Brown and Sand and Black combinations are also very effective. Trimmings are of a simple character, Ostrich feathers in novelty effects are used to quite an extent. Narrow bands of ostrich feathers are used extensively in the edging of brims in both black and color. Pompon effects of ostrich are used in many novel ways. Many times an ornament will be the only trimming used. The shapes vary from the close fitting toque to the large sailor shape. We made a fortunate purchase from a wholesale millinery house of their complete line of sample hats, shapes, trimmings, etc., and are selling them at wholesale prices.

We have one assortment of Ladies' Velour Ready-to-Wear Hats (Worth $5.50) Special Price $2.50.

MAKE YOUR SELECTIONS EARLY

FALL AND WINTER SWEATERS

Despite the scarcity of desirable sweaters for Men, Women and Children our Department is just as complete as in former years—we having bought early and in large quantities and for "spot cash," and are now rewarded by our ability to show complete lines of Wool Sweaters for every member of the family. Nooby, stylish garments for school and out door sports, as well as sturdy sweaters knit for service—they come in all the practical colors and in many effective styles.

Our sweater prices are less than the yarn it takes to make them.

NEAL BROWN DIES AT WATKINS, N. Y.

PROMINENT WISCONSIN LAWYER, POLITICIAN AND LITERA-TEUR, PASSES AWAY.

WAS BORN AT FORT ATKINSON

Twice Candidate for U. S. Senate,
Member of Assembly and State Senate — Body Brought to Wausau for Burial.

Wausau—Neal Brown, 61 years old, Wisconsin bar leader and prominent democrat, died in Watkins, N. Y., after an extended period of ill health. He went to Watkins a short time ago for treatment at a sanitarium. The body was brought here for burial.

He was born in Fort Atkinson, Wis., on Feb. 24, 1856. His father was Thurlock Weed Brown, well known publisher and editor.

Neal Brown was known for a varied career of law, literary pursuits and politics, the latter, however, predomi-nating.

He became actively interested in politics from the time he came to this city in 1880. He had been brought up a republican and campaigned for Illinois in 1884. In the Harrison-Cleveland campaign of 1888, however, he announced himself a democrat on the tariff issue and has been a member of the party ever since.

In 1880 he was elected a member of the assembly from the Second district of Marathon county and in 1892 was elected senator from his district.
He was twice the candidate of his party for the United States senate.
In 1893 he was placed against John C.
Sponcer, and in 1908 he was given the democratic party nomination.

He was twice a delegate to the national convention of the democratic party. During the last few years of his life his activity in the field waned.

Neal Brown was educated in the common schools of Jefferson county.
After some preparatory home study he entered the law school of the University of Wisconsin and was graduated in 1880. The same year he came to Wausau, which has been his home ever since.

SET DATE FOR CHEESE DAY

Green County Fair to Be Held at Monroe October Ninth — Limburger for Everybody.

Monroe—Cheese day, an original institution in Green county, will be celebrated for the fourth consecutive year, Oct. 9, with as large preparations as last year, when some 40,000 attended.
Swiss, Limburger and brick cheese will be served free just before lunch time on Spring square in sandwiches, with coffee and cream. A ton of the cheapest cheese was given away last year. The rest of the day cheese sandwiches will be sold at moderate prices at the booths on the four corners of the square.

A feature that has its bearing on conditions of the country at war will be the exhibit of foods by the state in the square, with explanation of the food value of cheese, and other common food. Conservation of food will be urged in special talks.

The committee has arranged for all the side attractions of a town carnival to amuse the children and country folk. A big parade will be held, and a masquerade of dancers on the square, with prizes for the best make-ups.

The historic connection of the largely Swiss population with the dairy industry lends a sentimental interest to the fête which always brings great crowds from all through the county.

ORGANIZE A BOAT FACTORY

Green Bay Concern Will Handle Government Work Exclusively — To Build Two Boats a Year.

Green Bay—To all the government to secure bays, a company, headed by Carl Hartmann, will fit out shipyards in property just purchased along Fox river and undertake the construction of boats this fall. It is announced.

Two berths, large enough to build boats 260 feet long, with 40 foot beam, will be provided on the property, which is 250x500 feet. It will be possible for the company to complete two boats in a year, it is said. Steel or wooden ships can be built. About eighty men will be employed in the new shipyards.

While the new company will construct ships, the Hartmann-Grelling Machine company of this city will engage in the reconstruction and refitting of boats commandeered by the government at lake ports to place in ocean service.

Form Guard at Fond du Lac.
Fond du Lac—Company B of the Wisconsin State Guard has been formed here with a charter membership of forty-eight men. At least twenty more are expected to sign the muster roll within a few days.

Bride of Two Weeks Is Widow.
Hurley — Mrs. Hartland Wukle of Ironwood, a bride of less than two weeks, is a widow. Her husband was electrocuted when he came in contact with a live wire.

Turk Robbed of $340.
Racine—Tony George, a Turk employed in a local factory, while on his way to a bank to deposit $340, was held up and robbed by two men who made their escape, although the hold-up was witnessed by many people.

Leon Pioneer Is Dead.
Leon—Alonso Mattosson, 87 years old, pioneer citizen of the town, is dead. Cancer was the cause of death.
Mr. Mattosson had lived here sixty years.

Women to Hunt Deer.
La Crosse—Misses J. W. Haines, J.
V. Winter and A. S. Miller have taken out licenses to hunt deer this season.
Mrs. Winter is the wife of Jesse V.
Winter, well known in Wisconsin trapping circles.

Pastors Are Assigned.
Horicon—The Rev. J. S. Lean has been assigned to the Methodist church pulpit here and the Rev. P. P. Raby will take up the work at Delavan and Darwin, Wis.

STATE FAIR PAYS FOR SELF

Cost Is $119,320 and Receipts Expected to Equal This Amount—Attendant Record Is Broken.

Milwaukee—Despite the unfavorable weather on Sept. 19, Milwaukee day, this year's state fair paid its own way,
according to Secretary Oliver E.
Remey.

The total cost of the fair was $119-320.30, and the receipts equal this amount.

Under the present plan of financing, the state turns over to the fair on March 1, each year, $125,000 in cash and takes the receipts. In addition to the $125,000 to be received on March 1, 1918, the fair will have also the difference between $125,000 and $119-320.30. This fair also will have net
$50,000 for improvements and $50-000 for an addition to the grandstand.

The total attendance this year, including children on Monday, exhibitors, and helpers, was 188,887 as against 172,620 in 1916. The total gate receipts this year were $66,687.20, as against $57,820.10 last year. Despite bad weather on Milwaukee day, therefore, the 1917 fair establishes a new record.

The new fence about the grounds having been completed, gates will be kept locked. However, any organization may use the grounds at any time by applying to the secretary for permission.

"I think the state fair should be run fourteen days instead of six," said Secretary Remey, "and I shall advocate this departure at the annual meeting of the advisory board."

GOV. TO SPEAK AT MEETING

Will Deliver Address of Welcome to Women's Clubs at Annual Convention at Madison on Oct. 17-18.

Madison—Gov. E. L. Phillips will deliver the address of welcome to the annual convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs, who will hold their annual meeting here, Oct. 17 and 18.
Women's work in the war, Red Cross work and civilian relief work, will be the general theme of the various papers and discussions at the convention. Meetings will be held in the assembly room of the capitol.

Among those who will speak will be
Mrs. F. T. Blesch, Wisconsin director; Mrs. A. C. Winkler, chairman of the women's committee of the State Council of Defense, Iowa; Mrs. W. T. Coe, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs of Minnesota; Miss Abby Mariatt, economic director of food administration for Wisconsin;
Mrs. H. W. Morgan, State Council of Defense; Horace J. Bridges, leader of the Ethical Culture society of Chicago; Mrs. R. S. Seybold, Madison; Miss Mary B. Messer, Washington; and Richard L. Jones, Madison.

INDIANS ARE MAKING GOOD

Many Who Enlisted for Service Are Winning Promotions in National Guard Regiments.

Couderay—That the Chippewa Indians boys from Couderay that enlisted in Co. H of the Sixth Wisconsin National guard are holding their own in competition with the white boys can easily be seen. While Isham has been appointed orderly to Capt. Wismer, Ira Isham and John Coudy, corporals; Alex De Marr, sergeant; John Kingfisher and George Coon, members of the Sixth Wisconsin regimental band; Ira Nesvold, chief bugler of the regiment.

About one-third or thirty-five of the members of Co. H are Chippewa Indians and the officers speak very highly of them and expect that for bravery and daring fighting they will be excelled by none when they reach the front.

POSE AS GOV. OFFICIALS

Police Are Looking for Man and Woman Who Are Commandeering
Canned Goods.

La Crosse—The police here are seeking a man and a woman who were reported to be working in this vicinity representing themselves as government agents, commandeering canned goods put up by the housewives.

Washington—The untraceable rumor that the government intends to take canned goods and dried foods from homes has spread to such an extent that the department of agriculture has placed an explicit and official denial in the hands of every county agent and representative with instructions to give it widest publicity.

Wisconsin Guard Called Perfect Men.
Camp Douglas — Col. E. N. Jones, chief muster officer, said: "I was dubious, but I now admit, the W. N. G. companies the finest men, physically,
I have seen."

Lafayette County Corn Damaged.
Darlington—Crop experts who have traveled throughout Lafayette county, estimate that corn crop sustained 40 per cent damage by the late frost.

Girl Is Burned to Death.
Marinette—Olga Verdetaki, 12 years old, daughter of Julius Verdetaki, was fatally burned when she ignited the kitchen fire with a kerosene can. An explosion followed and she became a mass of flames.

Plays Anti-Americans.
Mellen—A. L. Kreutzer, former senator, spoke for the Wisconsin Loyalty League here, bitterly condemning anti-American propagandists and justifying America's entrance into war.

Women in Furniture Plant.
Fond du Lac — Increased shortage of male labor because of the draft has caused the Winnebago Furniture company to employ women in its factory.
Twelve female workers are already on the payroll of the plant and more are wanted.

German Weekly Suspended.
Schlafersville — The German weekly paper, Der Botschafter, printed here by Gustav Meisler, has suspended publication.

State Weight Inspector Resigns.
Madison—F. P. Downing, chief inspector of weights and measures for Wisconsin for six years, has resigned and left for Washington, where he will become investigator of marketing for the bureau of markets of the department of agriculture.

O. B. Joerns, Sheboygan, Dies.
Sheboygan—O. B. Joerns, ex-mayor of Sheboygan and former assemblyman, died in Denver of heart trouble, according to word received here.

WISCONSIN TROOPS GET BIGGER GUNS

EQUIPMENT OF FIRST WISCON-SIN ORDERED CHANGED TO HEAVY ARTILLERY.

GIVEN SIX-INCH HOWITZERS

Each Battery Increased Twenty-Eight Men — Will Comprise 57th Field Artillery Brigade of U. S. Command by Brig. Gen. Haan.

Racine—The equipment of the First Wisconsin Field artillery under command of Col. Phillip Woodhull of Milwaukee, has been ordered changed to heavy artillery, according to information received here from Waco, Tex.

Instead of the three inch guns the Wisconsin regiment will be equipped with six inch howitzers, which are regular size siege guns. There are to be 228 men in each of the six batteries of the regiment, an increase of twenty-eight men in each battery.

Headquarters company will be increased from ninety to 205 men and nineteen new lieutenants are to be commissioned.

The heavy artillery regiment from Wisconsin with two newly created light artillery regiments from Michigan, will comprise the Fifty-seventh Field Artillery brigade of the United States and will be under command of Brig. Gen. Haan.

The recently organized brigade is to have four months' training in Waco and then board transports for France.
General Crowder's artillery is made up of two batteries from Milwaukee, two from Racine and two from Green Bay.

MAKE PLANS FOR CAMPAIGN

Leaders in the Wisconsin Dry Federation Preparing for Convention at Madison Next Year.

Madison—Leaders in the Wisconsin Dry federation are making plans for the next campaign and it is now proposed to hold a convention in Madison next year, when candidates pledged to the aims of the league will be placed in the field.

A meeting of the executive committee was held in Milwaukee state fair week. Those in attendance were:
John Strange, Menasha; Merila Hull,
Black River Falls; George B. Skogmo, River Falls; W. A. Foley, Superior; William T. Eyjue and Emerson Ela, Madison.

At this meeting a sub-committee consisting of Messrs. Hull, Eyjue and Ela was named. The Madison committee expects to hold a meeting soon.
County organizations will be formed and assembly and senatorial districts canvassed with a view to getting candidates into the field.

"The challenge thrown to the people of this state by Gov. Phillips in his veto of the Elyus referendum bill must not be forgotten," said John Strange.
"While the war is the big question we must not allow the liquor interests to work insidiously in the next campaign."

MENACE CHEESE INDUSTRY

Government Investigation Shows That Dealers Establish Price By Competitive Bidding.

Sheboygan—That the big packers are again menacing the cheese industry of Sheboygan county, and, for that matter, of the entire state of Wisconsin, is the claim of local cheese dealers, cheese makers and dairymen, made to the department of justice of the federal government.

Special Agent Stacy, of the department of justice, has been making a thorough investigation of the cheese industry, and, although he would not divulge what recommendation he would make to his department, it is known that he has received the information he came here to get.

After a most thorough investigation of the matter, the federal agent declared that he was satisfied that the Sheboygan and Plymouth dairy boards which establish the standard price of American cream cheese for the United States, are a good thing for the industry and for the general public. He found that the price is established by open competitive bidding by the cheese dealers.

Fined for Giving Soldiers Liquor

La Crosse—Persons who give liquor to soldiers who come to La Crosse face prosecution not only under the federal statute which prohibits giving liquor without first obtaining a retail license. The first conviction of a nature came when Judge Hunt fined William Clary, La Crosse, $40 for the offense.

Boy Bandits Busy at Kenosha.
Kenosha—Tony Smith, aged 17, and John Grigalunas, aged 16, of Chicago, looted a meat market, "stuck up" a saloonman for his roll and drew revolvers on a deputy. They drew three years apiece in Green Bay reformatory.

Beloit Drafted Used Autos.
Beloit—A column of thirty automobiles took Beloit's contingent of 85 soldiers to Camp Grant. Many were on the street to cheer their departure.

Plan New Masonic Building.
Neenah — Architects are drawing plans for a new building to be erected by the local Masonic lodge. When the plans are completed the contract will be let so that work can be started this fall.

Last Rose of Summer at Neenah.
Neenah—Despite the unreasonableness a rose bush on a South Communications Street lawn in this city is blooming luxuriantly. They bear huge white flowers.

Girl Held Following Forgeries.
Rhineland—Following a series of forgeries which will aggregate over $60 on business men here. Francis Manitzke, 17 years old, was arrested by chief of Police Maurice Straub.
All checks were endorsed with the actions name "Mary Nomen."

Issues Call for Bank Statements.
Madison — The state banking commissioner has issued a call for statements of the condition of state banks at the close of business on Sept. 11.

MORE MEN TO CAMP

MOVEMENT OF 274,800 MEMBERS OF NATIONAL ARMY WILL CONSUME FIVE DAYS.

CROWDER WANTS BARS SHUT

Appeals to Governors to Close Saloons
During Period of Entrainment—Doesn't Want Day Marred by Drunkenness.

Washington, Sept. 20.—Approximately 274,800 men will leave their homes beginning Wednesday on American's mobilization for war.
They are the 40 per cent due September 20.

Never in America has such a force been moved in similar time. All local boards are ready with their contingents.

With the arrival at the camps, the mobilization will be well under way.
Five per cent is already in camp.

The next quota of 40 per cent will mobilize October 5.

Only white troops will be mobilized, except in states where cantonment are located. There colored troops also will be mustered in.

Provost Marshal General Crowder issued this appeal to governors:
"A large percentage of your population is about to leave home for the uncertainties of a soldier's life. While not an occasion of sorrow, it is a day for solemnity. It is especially important that it be marred by drunkenness.

"Therefore, I suggest you consider closing of saloons during such hours preceding entrainment on the next and subsequent mobilization days." General Crowder delivered this final ruling on exemption appeals:

1. There is no appeal to the president except in claims based on agriculture or industry.
2. No evidence not submitted to district boards will be considered by the president.

The provost marshal general ruled,
however, dependency claims declined by district boards may be appealed to state governors.

Senators and congressmen will be permitted to aid drafted constituents.
It is practically certain that the 7-000,000 men not called for examination in the first draft will be called up and either enrolled for service or exempted immediately. Provost Marshal General Crowder put the question of calling these men for examination now up to a referendum vote of state governments.

Ten have replied. Eight favor the suggestion. One is strongly opposed to it, while the remaining one is against it but is willing to listen to arguments for its favor and follow the decision of the majority.

The names of the governors are held confidential by General Crowder.

BILLIONS VOTED FOR U. S. WAR

$7,000,000,000 War Deficiency Measure Carries Appropriations for Army and Shipping Boards.

Washington, Sept. 20.—The $7,000-000,000 war deficiency bill, carrying huge appropriations for the army, fortifications and shipping boards, passed the house on Tuesday by a unanimous vote.

The bill, the largest supply measure in the country's history, now goes to the senate, where prompt action is expected.

With new army and other estimates, the senate committee may be called upon to increase the bill around $1,000,000.

Senate Republicans favoring a congressional expenditures supervising committee have been planning to propose such a provision as an amendment to the bill, but may postpone their efforts in view of the general desire to hasten adjournment.

BUSINESS BACKS U. S. IN WAR

Secretary Baker Says Support Proves Democracy Safe for World—Speaks at Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 20.—
"American business in its support of the war to make the world safe for democracy is proving that democracy is safe for the world," Secretary of War Baker declared on Tuesday in the keynote speech delivered before the great war conference of the chamber of commerce of the United States in session here.

"We are marching into a perilous struggle, our soldiers, our business, our industry, all we have pledged to the great struggle to free the nations of Europe," he continued. His dramatic recital of the crimes of Germany aroused 2,000 sold business men gathered from throughout the nation to a remarkable demonstration. They arose, cheering and singing, as Mr.
Baker pledged all America's might to the cause of democracy.

First Breadless Day in Bay State.

RUSSIA NOW REPUBLIC

PROCLAMATION ISSUED BY THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT.

Cabinet of Five Members to Rule—Korniloff's Rebellion Quelled, but Some Confusion Exists.

Petrograd, Sept. 18.—Russia has been proclaimed a republic. The provisional government on Sunday issued the proclamation, dated September 14.
The proclamation follows:

"General Korniloff's rebellion has been quelled. But great is the confusion caused thereby, and again great is the danger threatening the fate of the fatherland and its freedom.

"Holding it necessary to put an end to the external indefiniteness of the state's organization, remembering the unanimous and rapid approval of the republican idea expressed at the Moscow state conference, the provisional government declares that the constitutional organization, according to which the Russian state is ruled is a republican organization, and it hereby proclaims the Russian republic.

(Signed) KERENSKY, Minister and President."

The provisional government announced that all of the affairs of state had been entrusted to five members of the cabinet. The following official communication was issued:

"Pending the definite constitution of a cabinet and in view of the present extraordinary circumstances, all affairs of state have been entrusted to M. Kerensky, premier; M. Terestchenko, minister of foreign affairs;
General Verbovsky, minister of war;
Admiral Verbovsky, minister of marine, and M. Nikitin, minister of posts and telegraph."

MEANING OF "PURIM"

The word "purim" the name of the great annual festival of the Jews, is derived from the Persian word "to preserve."

This feast commemorates the preservation of the Jews in Persia from the massacre with which they were threatened by Haman (Exodus 9).

They gave the name of Purim or "lots" to commemorate the festival because he had thrown lots to ascertain what day would be auspicious for the massacre.

COOPERATE IN BUYING AND SELLING POTATOES

Just to show that it should be done can be done Wisconsin potato growers at their annual convention to be held in Madison Nov. 19-24 will exhibit and finally deliver to dealers or consumers several carloads of potatoes, harvested and shipped under actual field conditions.

Growers and dealers in the potato belt of the state are now making plans to cooperate in this venture with the officers of the Wisconsin Potato Growers' Association. To supply a limited amount of table stock of this select kind, residents of Madison and adjoining territory will in advance of the convention be placed in communication with commercial growers at leading potato shipping points.

At these points, growers having standard varieties of either table stock or seed potatoes will unite in filling a car for the convention. Each grower's potatoes will be shown separately and at the close of the convention distributed to the buyers.

It is believed that the plan will show the possibilities of overcoming the actual difficulties which the grower and dealer must overcome in getting the crop harvested and delivered. As a war time emergency object lesson, this movement of graded potatoes, variety pure and relatively free from disease conditions, from the field to the consumer should be valuable.

To supplement the exhibit of graded potatoes, a complete line of sorting machinery will be shown.

SILLO QUESTIONS

36. How shall the scaffolding be built? The uprights are made of 2x6's set 3 feet outside the foundation wall. Each pair of uprights is fastened together with two diagonal braces. About 7 feet from the ground nail 1x4 inch boards, 8 feet long, on each pair of uprights. These horizontal boards should be kept as nearly level as possible. Planks are now laid on these horizontal boards so that they can be used to walk around on. New braces and horizontal boards can then be added to the scaffold as they are needed.

37. Is it possible to build without scaffolding? Stave silos can be constructed without building a scaffold, but this method is not nearly so convenient, and is dangerous. In building without the scaffold, the door frame is erected and securely braced, then three staves are set up together. They are nailed together on the ground and fastened in place by nailing boards at the top, which are attached to the door frame. This method can be used to the best advantage in erecting a one-piece stave silo.

38. How can I build a home-made door frame and set it plumb? Make it out of 2x6 material fastened together with 2x6's mortised in the upper corners two feet, of one-piece material. In placing it remove one pair of diagonal braces opposite the point where the door is to be located. Now raise the frame to place, and by means of a competent level make sure that it is plumb both ways. Brace securely to the barn or scaffold.

39. What is the best way to set the staves? In either a home-made silo or made of staves the staves should be beveled slightly and should always be set up with the widest dimension to the outside. Two or three men work to best advantage in placing the staves, one at the bottom, one at the top, and one in the middle. There should be provided a number of cracker or salt barrel staves to be used in holding each stave in place as it is set up. The silo staves are set up in pairs, one on each side and working around half way in either direction. The last stave is set opposite the door frame. When placing the staves and before the hoops are put on, the staves should be together just as slightly as possible.

COOKS AND BAKERS ARE WANTED FOR U. S. NAVY

WANTED—Cooks and bakers for the United States Navy. With the navy rapidly reaching its war strength of 150,000 men and the big interned German liners repaired and ready to transport hundreds of thousands of soldiers to France, the navy is in need of cooks and bakers to handle their end of the job of winning the war.

With thousands and thousands of hungry mouths to be fed the government is offering splendid opportunities to the men who know how to cook or bake.

Pay begins as soon as a man enlists. There are no lay-offs because of bad business or hard times. Whether a man is sick or well his pay goes just the same. Everything is free, board and lodging, and the first outfit of clothing.

The man who joins the mess branch of the navy gets not only his country but himself as well.

Cooks and bakers will be enlisted in the naval reserve, which enables a man to serve for the period of his own choice. Citizens of friendly nations, who have taken out their first papers will be granted full citizenship after a year's satisfactory service.

The pay of a ship's cook, first class, is $65 a month, which is all clear profit, as board and lodging is free. A second class cook is $52 a month, while a third class cook is given $41.

A baker, first class, is given $55.50 while a second class man gets $48.50. Mess attendants earn from $41 to $35.50 a month.

A man with a trade is given better pay in the navy, everything considered, than he can make working at home.

Enlist in the commissary staff of the navy and help feed the men who are fighting for America!

SEVERANCE-CHRISTIANSON

Miss Myrtle Severance of this city and Mr. Clarence Christianson of Chicago were married in this city Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Severance. The ceremony being performed by Rev. C. C. Becker of the Methodist church.

They were accompanied by Miss Marion Jackson and Mr. Harry Keppeler as bridesmaid and groomsmen.

Miss Marion Atwood sang a solo, "Oh, Promise Me," and the wedding march was played by Miss Isabelle Nash. After the ceremony there was a reception and a wedding breakfast, and the young people left on the noon train for the south on their wedding trip, and at the conclusion of this they will make their home in Chicago being at home to their friends after the first of November at 2710 Leeland avenue.

Both of these young people are well and favorably known in this city, the bride being one of our most popular young ladies who has lived here all her life, and the groom also spent the fore part of his life in this city, having graduated from the high school here and made his home here for many years. They both have many friends here who will unite with the Tribune in wishing them a long life of happiness.

TOMSKYK-JAGODZINSKY

John Tomskyk of this city and Miss Mary Jagodzinski of the town of Sigel were married on Tuesday at the Catholic church in the town of Sigel. They were accompanied by Frank Tomskyk, Mike Jagodzinski, Lou Jagodzinski, Joe Haddick, Leona Jagodzinski, Agnes Tomskyk, Louise Brostowitz and Mary Arnowski.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, and that afternoon and evening there was a large reception and dance at which a large number of the city guests were present and where the fun was kept up until a late hour.

Both of the young people are well known and favorably known in this community, and they have many friends both here and in the town of Sigel who will unite with the Tribune in extending the heartiest of congratulations.

WEINBAUER-MERWIN

Miss Etha Weinbauer of this city and Mr. Arthur Merwin of Abbotford were married in this city Saturday afternoon, the ceremony being performed by Rev. R. J. Locke of the Congregational church. They were accompanied by Miss Ina Merwin and Mr. Harry Weinbauer. After the ceremony there was a wedding dinner served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Weinbauer, and the newlyweds left the same day on a wedding trip, after which they will return to this city to make their home. The bride is one of our charming young ladies and the groom is employed by the Natwick Electric company, and both of the young people have many friends here to wish them a happy journey thru life.

SCHOOL TRANSPORTATION LAW

Opening of the rural schools of the state has centered attention on a new law passed at the last session of the legislature which greatly extends the scope of the old statute providing pay for transporting children to school. The state superintendent of schools has issued the following statement on the subject: "Transportation must be provided for at least six months, and no district will be permitted to draw aid for the transportation of children unless each child for whom aid is demanded attends school while being transported regularly for at least five months. The state will pay ten cents a day toward the transportation of children that are conveyed more than two and less than three miles; fifteen cents a day for children transported more than three miles from school; and twenty-five cents a day for children transported more than four miles.

An important provision is to the effect that in the case of children who live more than four miles from any school, the school board of the district may in its discretion, in lieu of transportation, board the children under certain conditions and restrictions near the school. The state will pay aid for such children as though they were transported.

In case the electors of a school district refuse to vote to instruct the board to transport children living more than two miles from school, the state provides that the parents or guardians of such children may transport them to school, and that the district must furnish transportation to school, provided the transportation was furnished and the child attended while being transported. Under this law, if the electors are opposed to transportation, the parent can transport his children and the district must pay the amount fixed by statute for each child.

According to the press reports it is probable that our boys who were sent south with Troop C will become artillerymen instead of a part of the cavalry as the boys expected when they joined. This is owing to the fact that the cavalry has practically become a thing of the past, there being no place in the present war for this class of men. Artillery and machine guns do the heavy work of the work of the fighting line and the horse has very little to do, the packing back of the lines being mostly taken care of with motor cars.

COHEN BROS. DEPT. STORE

We have a larger assortment of Ladies' and Misses' Coats than we ever had before.

With a touch of Fall in the evening air and mornings crisp and cool the nearer approach of chilly weather brings to mind the need of warmer garments.

Our Coats are made in the new and fashionable weaves and colors and are all man-tailored embodying the latest features that make them an assortment easy to select from.

The great Coat demand is for the Full Length. The large collars being shown resemble a cape in size and appearance. Some are of Fur in the form of a collarette attached to coat. The assortment of fabrics is rather limited but on account of the scarcity this is to be expected. The most important fabrics are Wool Velour, Novelty Zibeline Effects, Broad Cloth, Light Weight Kersey, Fancy Mixtures, Plush and other pile fabrics.

Prices range from $2.50 to $55.00.

New Fall Millinery

You will want to know just what the Millinery Vogue for Fall is. Our Millinery Department always tells the story of Styles — Materials — Colors — Shapes and Lowest Prices for the new season in a manner that will convince you of our ability to serve you intelligently and well.

One of the most popular colors for early fall is Purple; then comes bright Red, which is also called Military Red; Sand and Nigger Brown and Sand and Black combinations are also very effective. Trimmings are of a simple character, Ostrich feathers in novelty effects are used to quite an extent. Narrow bands of ostrich feathers are used extensively in the edging of brims in both black and color. Pompon effects of ostrich are used in many novel ways. Many times an ornament will be the only trimming used. We made a fortunate purchase from a wholesale millinery house of their complete line of sample hats, shapes, trimmings, etc., and are selling them at wholesale prices.

We have one assortment of Ladies' Velour Ready-to-Wear Hats (Worth $5.50) Special Price $2.50.

NEAL BROWN DIES AT WATKINS, N. Y.

PROMINENT WISCONSIN LAWYER, POLITICIAN AND LITERATEUR, PASSES AWAY.

WAS BORN AT FORT ATKINSON

Twice Candidate for U. S. Senate, Member of Assembly and State Senate — Body Brought to Wausau for Burial.

Wausau.—Neal Brown, 61 years old, Wisconsin bar leader and prominent democrat, died at Watkins, N. Y., after an extended period of ill health. He went to Watkins a short time ago for treatment at a sanitarium. The body was brought here for burial.

He was born in Fort Atkinson, Wis., on Feb. 21, 1856. His father was "Thurlock Weed Brown, well known publisher and editor.

Neal Brown was known for a varied career of literary pursuits and politics, the latter, however, predominant.

He became actively interested in politics from the time he came to this city in 1880. He had been brought up a republican and campaigned for Blaine in 1881. In the Harrison-Cleveland campaign of 1888, however, he announced himself as a democrat, and the fact has been a member of the party ever since.

In 1880 he was elected a member of the assembly from the Second district of Marathon county and in 1882 was elected senator from his district. He was twice the candidate of his party for the United States senate. In 1893 he was placed against John C. Spooner, and in 1898 he was given the democratic party nomination.

He was twice a delegate to the national convention of the democratic party. During the last few years of his life his activity in the field waned.

Neal Brown was educated in the common schools of Jefferson county. After some preparatory home study, he entered the law school of the University of Wisconsin and was graduated in 1880. The same year he came to Wausau, which has been his home ever since.

SET DATE FOR CHEESE DAY

Green County Fete to Be Held at Monroe October Ninth — Limburger for Everybody.

Monroe.—Cheese day, an original institution in Green county, will be celebrated for the fourth consecutive year, Oct. 9, with as large preparations as last year, when some 40,000 attended. Swiss, Limburger and brick cheese will be served free just before lunch time on Sprague square in sandwiches, with coffee and cream. A ton of the choicest cheese was given away last year. The rest of the day cheese sandwiches will be sold at moderate prices at the booths on the four corners of the square.

A feature that has its bearing on conditions of the country at war will be the exhibit of foods by the state in the square, with explanation of the food value of cheese, and other common food. Conservation of food will be urged in special talks.

The committee has arranged for all the side attractions of a town carnival to amuse the children and country folk. A big parade will be held, and a masquerade of dancers on the square, with prizes for the best make-ups.

The historic connection of the largely Swiss population with the dairy industry lends a sentimental interest to the fete which always brings great crowds from all through the county.

ORGANIZE A BOAT FACTORY

STATE FAIR PAYS FOR SELF

Cost Is $119,320 and Receipts Expected to Equal This Amount—Attendance Record Is Broken.

Milwaukee.—Despite the unfavorable weather on Sept. 15, Milwaukee day, this year's state fair paid its own way, according to Secretary Oliver B. Remey.

The total cost of the fair was $119,320.30, and the receipts equal this amount.

Under the present plan of financing, the state turns over to the fair on March 1, each year, $125,000 in cash and takes the receipts. In addition to the $125,000 to be received on March 1, 1918, the fair will have also the difference between $125,000 and $119,320.30. The fair also will have next year $5,000 for improvements and $50,000 for an addition to the grandstand.

The total attendance this year, including children on Monday, exhibition, and in the afternoon, was 188,887, against 172,220 in 1916. The total gate receipts this year were $66,687.20, as against $57,820.10 last year. Despite bad weather on Milwaukee day, therefore, the 1917 fair establishes a new record.

The new fence about the grounds having been completed, rates will be kept locked. However, any organization may use the grounds at any time by applying to the secretary for permission.

"I think the state fair should be run fourteen days instead of six," said Secretary Remey, "and I shall advocate this departure at the annual meeting of the advisory board."

INDIANS ARE MAKING GOOD

Many Who Enlisted for Service Are Winning Promotions in National Guard Ranks.

Conduen.—That the Chippewa Indian boys from Conduen that enlisted in Co. H of the 8th Wisconsin National guard are holding their own in competition with the white boys can easily be seen. While Indian has been appointed orderly to Capt. Wisner, Ira Isaacs and John "Adott, corporals; Alex De Marr, sergeant; John King, Fisher and George Coon, members of the Sixth Wisconsin regimental band; Ira Nesvold, chief bugler of the regiment.

About one-third of thirty-five of the members of Co. H are Chippewa Indians and the officers speak very highly of them and expect that for bravery and daring fighting they will be excelled by none when they reach the front.

MAKE PLANS FOR CAMPAIGN

Leaders in the Wisconsin Dry Federation Preparing for Convention at Madison Next Year.

Madison.—Leaders in the Wisconsin Dry federation are making plans for the next campaign and it is now proposed to hold a convention in Madison next year, when candidates pledged to the aims of the league will be placed in the field.

A meeting of the executive committee was held in Milwaukee state last week. Those in attendance were: John Strang, Menasha; Meritt Hull, Black River Falls; George B. Skogmo, River Falls; W. A. Foley, Superior; William T. Evgue and Emerson J. M. Madison.

At this meeting a sub-committee consisting of Messrs. Hull, Evgue and M. was named. This committee will meet again to hold a meeting soon. County organizations will be formed and assembly and senatorial districts canvassed with a view to getting candidates into the field.

"The challenge thrown to the people of this state by Gov. Phillip in his veto of the Evgue referendum bill must not be forgotten," said John Strang, "while the war is the big question we must not allow the liquor interests to work insidiously in the next campaign."

MENACE CHEESE INDUSTRY

Government Investigation Shows That Dealers Establish Price By Competitive Bidding.

Sheboygan.—That the big packers are again menacing the cheese industry of Sheboygan county, and for that matter the entire state of Wisconsin, as the claim of local cheese dealers, cheese makers and dairymen, made to the department of justice of the federal government.

Special Agent Stacy, of the department of justice, has been making a thorough investigation of the cheese industry, and, although he would not say to him, his recommendation is known that he has received the information he came here to get.

After a most thorough investigation of the matter, the federal agent declared that he was satisfied that the Sheboygan and Plymouth dairy boards which establish the standard price of American cream cheese for the United States, are a good thing for the industry and for the general public. He found that the price is established by open competitive bidding by the cheese dealers.

BRIG. GEN. JERVEY

MOVEMENT OF 274,800 MEMBERS OF NATIONAL ARMY WILL CONSUME FIVE DAYS.

CROWDER WANTS BARS SHUT

Appeals to Governors to Close Saloons During Period of Entrainment — Doesn't Want Day Marred by Drunkenness.

Washington, Sept. 20.—Approximately 274,800 men will leave their homes beginning Wednesday on American mobilization for war.

They are the 40 per cent due September 20. Never in America has such a force been moved in similar time. All local boards are ready with their contingents.

With the arrival at the camps, the mobilization will be well under way. Five per cent is already in camp.

The next quota of 40 per cent will mobilize October 6.

Only white troops will be mobilized, except in states where contingents are limited. There colored troops also will be mobilized.

President Marshall General Crowder issued this appeal to governors: "A large percentage of your population is about to leave home for the uncertainties of a soldier's life. It is not an occasion of sorrow, it is a day for solemnity. It is especially appropriate that it be marked by drunkenness."

"Therefore, I suggest you consider closing of saloons during such hours preceding entrainment on the next and subsequent mobilization days."

General Crowder delivered this final ruling on exemption appeals:

1. There is no appeal to the president except in claims based on agriculture or industry.

2. No evidence not submitted to district boards will be considered by the president.

The purist marshal general ruled, however, dependency claims declined by district boards may be appealed to state governors.

Senators and congressmen will be powerless to add drafted contingents. It is practically certain that the 7,000,000 men called for examination in the first draft will be called up and either enrolled for service or exempted immediately. President Marshall General Crowder put the question of calling these men for examination now up to a referendum vote of state governors.

Ten have replied. Eight favor the suggestion. One is strongly opposed to it, but is willing to listen to arguments in its favor and follow the decision of the majority.

The names of the governors are held confidential by General Crowder.

BILLIONS VOTED FOR U. S. WAR

$7,000,000,000 War Deficiency Measure Carries Appropriations for Army and Shipping Boards.

Washington, Sept. 20.—The $7,000,000,000 war deficiency bill, carrying huge appropriations for the army, fortifications and shipping boards, passed the house on Tuesday by a unanimous vote.

The bill, the largest supply measure in the country's history, now goes to the senate, where prompt action is expected.

With new army and other estimates, the senate committee may be called upon to increase the bill around $10,000,000.

Senate Republicans favoring a congressional expenditures supervising committee have been planning to propose such a provision as an amendment to the bill, but may postpone their effort in view of the general desire to hasten adjournment.

Secretary Baker Says Support Proves Democracy Safe for World — Speaks at Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 20.—"American business in its support of the war to make the world safe for democracy is proving that democracy is safe for the world," Secretary of War Baker declared on Tuesday before the keynote speech delivered before the great war conference of the United States in session here. "We are marching millions strong, our soldiers, our business, our industry, all we have pledged to the great struggle to free the nations of Europe," he continued. "The dramatic action of the crisis of Germany aroused 2,000 solid business men gathered from throughout the nation to a remarkable demonstration. They cheered, cheering and singing as Mr. Baker pledged all America's might to the cause of democracy."

Advance Notes On Winter Wear

Paris.—This year the season at Biarritz has opened quite brilliantly. Every-thing is cheered up by the arrival of the splendid "Santalles," who are already established favorites in France. Every-one is of the opinion that the entry of America into the war is the begin-ning of a new era. And indeed we who have lived in France all through the past three years, have almost come to the end of endurance.

At Biarritz in the autumn season we always look for advance notes on the winter styles. Nearly all the impor-tant dress-makers of Paris have branch establishments at Biarritz and it is here that the first show of winter fash-ions takes place.

Biarritz is almost a frontier town and so close to Spain that the Span-ish women who are devoted to dress have made it a second Paris; it is here that they purchase their beautiful winter toques in the fall, and it is here that they, or very many of them, are worn for the first time, just to take off the newness and—so they say—to get the better of the sharp custom-house people when crossing the frontier.

Lovely Models for Autumn.
Paquin is showing some fairly lovely models this autumn, in a dainty little "magnolia" which is close to the sea front and side by side with the famous Maison Lewis.

One Paquin model seen was a charming and eminently useful dress ex-pressed in midnight-blue charmeuse and "shrapnel-gray" pout de sole.

The creature was handsomely head-dressed in blue, gray and silver, and the long tassel matched. Round the de-cadent neck of this little dress there was a narrow band of skunk. This is es-sentially a useful style of dress, for it might be worn on almost any oc-casion, always looking smart and un-derstanding without being in any way sen-sational. It is the kind of dress which has gone far to make Mme. Paquin's reputation.

I can imagine this model copied in black charmeuse, with centure and tassel in scarlet, blue, silver and jet beads, and the touch of skunk on the collar, or again, in sapphire blue silk finished cashmere with belt and tassel in cut steel beads worked on pale gray suede and a handsome steel tassel. In fact a dozen different ver-sions suggest themselves for the out-line of the model is charmingly origi-nal and simple.

Original Tailored Suit.
The figure illustrated shows a highly original tailored suit created by Tru-fert. Here you have the large fur-over collar which is a feature of the autumn season. These collars are to be found on many of the new coats and wraps and they are exceedingly comfortable and easy. The Tru-fert model was carried out in pale de Ro-sa, with aubergine and brown and white checked velvet. The skirt is slit up the sides in doll fashion and where it opens it shows panels of the checked velvet; this little coatee hangs straight at the back and is cut in the inevitable sack style.

"Monk's cloth" is very much in evi-dence in the advance models shown at Biarritz just now. Callot is using this cloth for specially effective driving wraps, and she advances very beau-tiful and rich colors, such as beveled, rust-red, military-scarlet, Japonica-pink and even aubergine.

Callot is mixing skunk with ermine on some of her new evening wraps, and is thus obtaining most attractive results. For example, a flowing wrap, very like the loose robe worn by Chinamen of high degree, made of bright Japonica-pink faced cloth and lined with black charmeuse bordered promise well; tangles of rich stuffs over narrow simple underdresses, ex-cquisite embroideries and metal clasps, jewel set and rare, rich velvets and rich furs. And, just as in those far off days the lady sat in her tower at her embroidery, I think, while her time

Careless washing and imperfect dry-ing are the reasons for more red, un-sightly hands than anything else. The slightest dampness of the skin in cold weather will make the hands chapped and crack.

Not water should not be used more than once a day at most for wash-ing the hands, and then they should be rinsed in cold.

in aluminum threads. There was a hood collar of ermine bordered with skunk, and the two furs appeared side by side on the wide sleeves of the wrap. Down the fronts there were three beautiful aluminum ornaments which served to fasten the cloak.

Garments for Motoring.
A more ordinary garment, intended for motoring or for wearing over a smart frock on a chilly day, was made of pale beige mon's cloth and lined with printed Indian silk which showed wonderful shades of blue, red and gray on a white ground. There was a deep shoulder cape which was almost covered with embroideries worked in a heavy make of beige silk and a roll over collar of heavy fur which ex-actly matched the shade of the cloth.

This was a very harmonious and de-sirable garment and I was not sur-prised to hear that it has already proved a great success; copies of it in different colors and materials seem to be pouring in. Another favorite winter material is velvet-plaid blanket cloth, an English stuff which is in great favor with the Parisiennes.

I saw a driving wrap made of this material at the Paquin display; the color was clear beige and the wrap was finished with a deep collar and im-mense cuffs of soft beaver, while the lining consisted of black and white striped taffetas.

This was a thoroughly useful wrap and one which I can confidently recom-mend to my readers. The rage for beaver fur is fiercer as ever, and the correct thing is a beaver-colored tailo-red suit trimmed with black, collar, cuffs of the best quality beaver fur. With such a costume a smart little hat in bright emerald velvet would be worn.

Pretty Hat for Autumn.
Lancé Hume is creating many lovely things this autumn. I have illustrated one of her latest novelties, which is making a big sensation amongst the pretty Spanish girls. This is a deli-ciously becoming drawn silk hat in a dense shade of lavender which has around the crown a band of gray squirrel and in front a handsome beaded ornament in mauve, gray and silver.

This is one of the very new shapes and entirely satisfactory. The hat is quite small, with a cloche brim and a corded silk crown. It was to accom-pany a smart tailored suit made of la-ender cloth which was trimmed with bands of squirrel. The coat of this suit was finished with a straight, throw-over tie made of cloth and fur. These throw-over ties are the latest.

Smart Hat for Autumn.
These ties are attached to the coat itself and take the place of an ordi-nary collar, one end being left loose and thrown round the neck and over the shoulder at will.—Idalia de Vil-lers, in the Boston Globe.

Feathers Coming Back.
Spending of phantasies recalls to mind the fact that old Mister Ostreich is destined to be losing his tall feathers again. For several years he has been permitted to glory in his person. The girl for whom he had plumed, but now it's all off. Feathered, the new cavalier shape, which is soft and pliable, with brim holding itself up gently on one side and drooping on the other, is not a cavalier hat at all, unless a long curled ostrich plume crowns the crown and slides down at the back, caressing the wearer's hair.

Blue Serge Worn With Gold.
Blue serge is always in favor, and it always looks nice; but not always does it look smart. A means of mak-ing it so is a cavalry style of using it in the wrong way. A couple of stups in front done in pale gold, the border of a deeply turned-back collar simi-larly finished, and the effect is char-ming. The skirt part sets in low plaits, and inside the turned-down collar is a fold of wavy chiffon. The sleeves are wide to near the wrist, when they fall in-lapels, the cuffs being continued close to the wrists. Gold braid can be suc-cessfully used with effect.

Pockets and Belts to Go.
Latest Version of the Straight Frock Dispenses With These Old Favorites.

There is a rumor in Paris that our new coats are to be Chinese in style, that is, straight from the shoulder, with kimono sleeves and with waist-coats of deliberate gorgeousness. The coat may be black, for instance, with a bit of blue embroidery all about the edges, and the waistcoat may be of a brilliant orange satin embroidered with black, white, and gold, and belted with blue and black embroidery. A coat of this sort would extend about to the knees, while the waistcoat stops short at the hips. The skirt under-neath is straight, narrow, and quite untrimmied.

We have worn the straight frock for months, and we shall doubtless wear it for months to come. The pocket has disappeared from the latest version of the straight frock, and now the rumor is that the belt is to follow the pocket into oblivion. There are pos-sibilities in the unbelted frock, which

"Stop that car!"
The automobile was coming slowly down a rutty country road, when the urgent mandate caused its driver to halt precipitately, wonder and surprise manifested in his handsome young face.

"What's the trouble?" he inquired.
"This!" spoke the sturdy, stern-looking man who had suddenly sprung out from among some heavy shrubbery, and he leveled the shotgun he carried squarely at the automobile. "Stop out, or I'll pepper that windshield of yours all over the road."

"And this!" supplemented his fifteen-year-old son, Jolly, one of four-pronged pitchforks in the direction of the front wheel. "If dad drives, I'll let out all the air you've got."

"Is it the man?" questioned the farmer of the lad.
"He's the man," boomed his son de-cisively. "I'd know him by that peaked cap he wears anywhere."

"Stop out," ordered the farmer. We were waiting for you."
"What for?" demanded Hector Lane, artist.

"Because you look that road three hours ago, without knowing that the bridge was down at the creek and that you'd have to come back over the same route. You stopped over in the field this morning to cook your breakfast, didn't you?"

"Why, yes, I did," came the prompt reply.
"And kicked the embers of your cigarette around loose and careless. After you'd gone some live sparks set the stubble on fire and ran up to the two poultry houses. If you'll look, you'll see no houses there now."

Hector Lane stepped out of the ma-chine voluntarily now. He rubbed his chin thoughtfully as he scanned two heaps of charred timbers.
"I fancy I did the work, farmer," he acknowledged.

"It will cost you four hundred dol-lars," observed Seth Payne.
"Well, well; and I haven't got forty in the whole world," recklessly laughed the automobilist. "Bad fix, isn't it?"

Well, don't look disappointed, or get mad. I acknowledge the error, and of course I'll have to get it."
"How?" snapped out Payne.

"Why, I have a friend in the city who will send me the money. I'll get to the village and telegraph him at once."

"Not with the machine!" declared the farmer. "You'll leave that as security. You're a stranger to me and I take no risks."

"Father!" broke in a new voice, sweet, laden with reproach.

As the owner, four great-eyed Myrtle Payne, the stranger gazed with awak-ened interest. He heard her whisper: "He is a gentleman, you can trust him," and secretly appreciated her trustful-ness.

"You'll report back?" muttered the farmer distrustfully.

"The minute I get in touch with my friend," declared Lane, and sped on his way.

"Tell never come back," growled Seth Payne.

"He will," confidently asserted Myrtle Payne.

He did. Hector Lane drove up to the farmhouse within two hours. There was a quizzical smile on his open, pleasing face.

"Anywhere you can store the auto?" he inquired.

"What for?" asked the farmer.

"My friend has gone on a long trip; I have no other resources. I'll leave the machine in pawn with you till I pay your bill."

"Well, you are a square one, just as you said," observed Payne, turning to his daughter, who blushed, his own harsh features relaxing. "Dinner nearly ready, Myrtle? All right," as she nodded assent. "Come in, neighbor, and we'll talk it over."

Hector Lane, winner of hearts, in his frank, jolly way captivated all hands with his recital of how he had invested his sole thousand dollars in the automobile, and had started off on a protracted sketching tour. Then he was invited to stay all night. Bright and early the next morning he joined the farmer attending to his stock.

"I've been thinking, Mr. Payne," he observed, "and I wondered if you wouldn't take me in pawn, as well as the automobile. Here's the facts: I

43 YEARS OF LIFE IN JAIL

When Old Man Returned to Home Town in Kentucky No One Knew Him.

Owensboro, Ky.—After 43 years spent in the Arkansas penitentiary at Little Rock, Joseph P. Jones has returned here to pick up the thread of life that was broken when he was sent to prison.

When a young man Jones went to Arkansas to work on a farm. He met and loved the daughter of the farmer who employed him. The girl had another admirer, who was the son of a wealthy farmer. He did not relish the intrusion, quarreled with Jones and fought a knife duel with him at the gate of the girl's home. When the fight ended Jones' rival was dead.

After a hasty trial Jones was con-victed of murder in the first degree and sent to prison for life. After 43 years his case was laid before the governor. A pardon was granted. Old man Jones walked out of his prison. The girl for whom he had fought had never married, but she had long since been dead. Penitentiary. Jones walked from Little Rock to Owensboro. No one remembered him. He is a stranger in his own home town.

Washington.—Government experi-menters have just finished a camera for aerial use which may be adopted by all the allied armies, and is ex-pected to prove of incalculable advan-tage in the war. The development of the proper lens was the greatest ac-complishment.

Trist pictures taken from the top of the Washington monument showed people a full mile away as clearly as if they had been sitting before a photo-grapher's camera in a scientifically lighted room.

As an improved "eye" for artillery, and in locating enemy troops, the new camera is expected to give the al-lies a more decided advantage than they now hold.

"And this!" supplemented his fifteen-year-old son, Jolly, one of four-pronged pitchforks in the direction of the front wheel. "If dad drives, I'll let out all the air you've got."

"Is it the man?" questioned the farmer of the lad.
"He's the man," boomed his son de-cisively. "I'd know him by that peaked cap he wears anywhere."

"Stop out," ordered the farmer. We were waiting for you."
"What for?" demanded Hector Lane, artist.

"Because you look that road three hours ago, without knowing that the bridge was down at the creek and that you'd have to come back over the same route. You stopped over in the field this morning to cook your breakfast, didn't you?"

"Why, yes, I did," came the prompt reply.
"And kicked the embers of your cigarette around loose and careless. After you'd gone some live sparks set the stubble on fire and ran up to the two poultry houses. If you'll look, you'll see no houses there now."

Hector Lane stepped out of the ma-chine voluntarily now. He rubbed his chin thoughtfully as he scanned two heaps of charred timbers.
"I fancy I did the work, farmer," he acknowledged.

"It will cost you four hundred dol-lars," observed Seth Payne.
"Well, well; and I haven't got forty in the whole world," recklessly laughed the automobilist. "Bad fix, isn't it?"

Well, don't look disappointed, or get mad. I acknowledge the error, and of course I'll have to get it."
"How?" snapped out Payne.

"Why, I have a friend in the city who will send me the money. I'll get to the village and telegraph him at once."

"Not with the machine!" declared the farmer. "You'll leave that as security. You're a stranger to me and I take no risks."

"Father!" broke in a new voice, sweet, laden with reproach.

As the owner, four great-eyed Myrtle Payne, the stranger gazed with awak-ened interest. He heard her whisper: "He is a gentleman, you can trust him," and secretly appreciated her trustful-ness.

"You'll report back?" muttered the farmer distrustfully.

"The minute I get in touch with my friend," declared Lane, and sped on his way.

"Tell never come back," growled Seth Payne.

"He will," confidently asserted Myrtle Payne.

He did. Hector Lane drove up to the farmhouse within two hours. There was a quizzical smile on his open, pleasing face.

"Anywhere you can store the auto?" he inquired.

"What for?" asked the farmer.

"My friend has gone on a long trip; I have no other resources. I'll leave the machine in pawn with you till I pay your bill."

"Well, you are a square one, just as you said," observed Payne, turning to his daughter, who blushed, his own harsh features relaxing. "Dinner nearly ready, Myrtle? All right," as she nodded assent. "Come in, neighbor, and we'll talk it over."

Hector Lane, winner of hearts, in his frank, jolly way captivated all hands with his recital of how he had invested his sole thousand dollars in the automobile, and had started off on a protracted sketching tour. Then he was invited to stay all night. Bright and early the next morning he joined the farmer attending to his stock.

"I've been thinking, Mr. Payne," he observed, "and I wondered if you wouldn't take me in pawn, as well as the automobile. Here's the facts: I different places, viz., Philadelphia, Baltimore, Lancaster, Pa.; York, Pa.; Princeton, N. J.; Annapolis, Md.; Tron-ton, N. J., and New York. From 1770 to 1785 the congress met at Philadel-phia three different times, and it met at New York from 1785 to 1789.

overheard you tell your wife you were short of working hands. Hire me. I need a little of roughing it to get me in trim for winter studio work. Then by fall, if I don't get action with my friend, we'll sell the automobile and square up."

He had a persuasive way, he was a prime fellow, for, accommodating him-self to his environment, every evening he declared he was as healthy and hungry as a bear. Every morning he went eagerly to his tasks. Between times there was Myrtle, modest, bright-eyed Myrtle, evenings and holidays the automobile was called into requisition. Hector taught Myrtle how to run it. It got to be almost considered as family property.

One day Payne said to Hector: "See here, we'll call it square on those two old sheds that burned down. You're a man, every inch of you, and I can't call that debt. You can leave, machine and all, any time you like."

"What a responsive Hector cheerily, "I don't want to leave. This is the life! Why, I'm built up like a trained pugilist, and if you don't object, I'll stay another month," and here the crafty young scoundrel stole a glance at Myrtle, delicately trimming the garden border, and whispered to himself: "Two months, a year, if Myrtle acts as if she'd like me to."

Myrtle would not take the auto-mobile afterwards for a trip to her friends in the district. Hector had made of her an expert at the wheel. One day, nearly at dusk, a strange automobile drove up.

"Oh, father!" yelled Ned Payne, rushing into the house all excited. "There's been an accident; the auto-mobile is all smashed up, and some strangers have brought Myrtle home all mangled up!"

All hands rushed out to the road. A stranger, a well-dressed, impressive-looking man, was asking Myrtle from his automobile. Myrtle wore a hand-icapped over one side of her face and one arm was in a sling. She was pale and shaken up, but instantly called out, reassuringly:

"Don't get frightened, mother; I'm only scratched up a little!"

"She is a heroine!" cried her escort in quavering tones. "Oh, madam! Oh, she!" he added with fervor, "she risked her life to save my two little children from certain death. I shall bless her to the last moment of my existence!"

The thrilling story came out in sec-onds. It appeared that a light auto-mobile operated by a horse, with two little children in the rear seat, had got stalled directly in the middle of a rail-road track, with the fast mail coming not two hundred yards distant. Myrtle had descended their peril. She took a fearful chance and drove straight up against the little machine sent it plunging off the tracks, but the shock leveled her own machine sideways into a ditch and she was thrown out.

Mr. Devereil insisted on purchasing outright for an extravagant sum Hector's automobile.

Hector felt it his duty to be very tender and attentive to the family in-called Myrtle. Those two drifted slowly under the potent influence of love's young dream.

And the day of the wedding Mr. Devereil made a present of the hand-some residence in the village to the happy pair.

WHERE BRITISH RULERS MEET

Houses of Parliament, by the Thames at London, One of World's Stateliet Buildings.

"The building occupied for legislative purposes by the British parliament at Westminster, London, was begun in 1840 from plans by Barry. The style is ornate late perpendicular; the ar-chitecture is of the fourteenth century. The building comprises 11 courts, some of large size. 1,700 rooms and 100 towers. The main front is 340 feet long with low square towers at the extremities and flanking the raised central portion. The square Victoria tower at the southwest angle is 340 feet high. The middle tower and the pointed clock tower at the north end are slightly less lofty. The house of commons is toward the north end of the great structure. It measures 75 by 45 feet and 41 high, and is solidly and simply furnished, and paneled with oak. There are 12 shadowed of colored glass. The house of lords, 90 by 45 feet and 47 feet high, is very richly decorated. Its walls are adorned with historical frescoes. Among other notable rooms are the Central hall, between the house of lords and the house of commons, neoclassical in plan and finely orna-mented, and the queen's robing room and the royal gallery, used by the sovereign when he or she opens or terminates parliament in person. A Sicilian hall affords communication between the Central hall and West-minster hall on the west. About 600 statues, inside and outside, adorn the buildings.

Curious Jewel Box.
A curious jewel box made of fossil ivory by the natives of Siberia is on exhibition at the Museum of Natural History in New York, says the Chris-tian Herald. The sides and top are composed of thin plates of ivory and are carefully fitted together, the corners being dovetailed. They have carved in their scenes of the north-land, the front side representing a hunter returning from the chase riding a reindeer. The box is made from the tusks of mammoths that have been buried for ages beneath the ice in Siberia. Some of these tusks weigh from 200 to 300 pounds. Elephants' tusks furnished the ivory for the Jews. Solomon made his throne of it.

Killing Blue Devils.
While the "blues" might be classed with disease, they really deserve a corner all their own. If you are ever tormented by the blue devils, drop every-thing, if possible, and walk, walk, walk. Observe the people and things that you pass, and you will return in such a cheerful frame of mind that you'll wonder how you could have felt so miserable. One woman confided to me that if she ever has a troublesome problem to solve she does not think of it while doing her duties, but waits until she can walk in the open air. The exercise and the fresh air assist her to come to a quick and usually a wise decision.

Commanders Young and Old
In American Wars Both Veterans and Striplings Have Led Armies to Glorious Victory.

It should not be forgotten that in our American wars there always have been generals over fifty. Scott and Taylor, in the Mexican war, were much over that age. Corps Commanders Sumner, Heintzelman and Marshall, in the Civil war, were past that age. Army Commanders Hooker, Meade and Thomas had a large part in ending the war. The most successful generals in the present have seen more than a half century. Wadsworth and Joffre are nearly seventy. Albert B. Lee was fifty-six when the Civil war ended.

Nor must we forget that quite young men have been American generals. McClellan, the pride of the Army of the Potomac for two years, was thirty-five. He organized and commanded an army of a quarter of a million. Phil Sher-idan was a major general of regulars and commander of an army when only thirty-four. George A. Custer was a division commander at twenty-four. There were generals of brigades not yet twenty-two. General Grant was only forty-three at Appomattox.

Thus, remarks the Milwaukee Scen-icist, it will be seen that it is not wise entirely to rule out old men or the quite young men in creating general officers.

There were no better fighters in the the Philippines than Generals Arthur, MacArthur and Charles King. Both were past fifty when on duty there, and no officer over there had a larger part in terminating the Philippine war than MacArthur, the Milwaukee boy of sev-enteen, who, in 1897, was adjutant of a regiment and in 1898 its colonel, with a pocketful of commissions from the president and governor and not yet old enough to vote.

RULES FOR APPLE GRADING

The state department of agriculture has just prepared Circular No. 6 giving the rules and regulations necessary to be observed in packing apples under the new Wisconsin apple grading law.

The new law requires that all Wisconsin apples sold in closed packages from this time on be packed in grades and all these grades be stamped on the box with the owner's name and address.

A heavy tax is provided for misbranding, but for the purpose of wanting the contents by putting the good fruit on the top of the barrel. This law has resulted in great benefit to the grower and consumer in the state where it has been in force for some time. The consumer who wants a good article has found that he can now buy home grown fruit and be sure that it is what he is represented to be, while on the other hand, the grower finds a better market for a good, honest product than formerly because it has been able to compete with other barrels in the state.

SARATOGA

John Johnson and family and Wm. Anderson and family spent a part of the day Sunday at the Chas. Johnson home.

We understand that Jake Peterson who recently traded his farm to Geo. Fisher for a house and lot in the Rapids, expects very soon to move to the city to live. We are rather skeptical for ourselves as to city dwelling, getting our backing from the story of Sodom. Abraham chose the plain of Mammoth and kept his whole family, living to become the head of a great nation. He pitched his tent toward Sodom and his all went up in smoke and his family became a curse.

Tom Crystal was charming "Lizette" in a great stage Sunday. He drove her to the marsh to see how many of those horses were in his hay, and then run her to church in the afternoon.

Brie Knutson and Tom Crystal called on Axel Peterson Sunday.

We saw the natural blanket Rev. Knutson brought from Sweden and night night, give us a lamb's or even an unbleached cotton blanket.

Hope springs eternal in the breast, and we are glad to report that the circumstances are putting out new leaves and blossoms, and when we hear anyone say "I'm not true," we say, "Cough, cough, wheeze and blow, ny! oh ny! my head aches so! How about you?"

Henry Lipsitz, who is employed in a machine shop at Madison and Albert who is employed at farming at Clear Lake, Iowa, arrived here last week to visit with their parents and assist them until after the harvest.

READS TABLETS OF AGES AGO

University Professor Discovers Fundamental Christian Religion—Were Evolved 2,600 B. C.

Dr. Stephen Langdon has just deciphered tablets in the University of Pennsylvania museum which are thousands of years old.

The doctrine of a Messianic hope, of the expectation of deliverance from sin and suffering by a God-man in the shape of a King, goes back to at least 2,600 B. C., when the Sumero-Babylonian theologians evolved a theory which has been the basis of Jewish and Christian religion ever since, according to his discoveries.

The new tablets are of interest because they show that the Sumero-Babylonians never lost sight of the restoration to a state of sinlessness and happiness that the agency of the gods would come and their faith was placed on earthly kings who were deified and worshipped in the hope that one would be a deliverer. Elaborate rituals were made for all of them, but each failed. Then came the Sumero-Babylonian quest of the Sumer and the era of pessimism set in, as shown by the famous epic of Gilgamesh, one missing book of which has just been found in the Nippur collection of the University museum.

The Semites had no such Messianic hope, since the story of Gilgamesh, hero of the epic of Gilgamesh, is the story of the restoration of Paradise, and this is the more important because Gilgamesh himself was half-god. It is presumed that the Jew's great idea of a Messiah from the Sumero-Babylonian epic rather than from their own conceptions in Babylonia.

The discovery is considered important because it shows that the Semites never lost sight of the restoration to a state of sinlessness and happiness that the agency of the gods would come and their faith was placed on earthly kings who were deified and worshipped in the hope that one would be a deliverer. Elaborate rituals were made for all of them, but each failed. Then came the Sumero-Babylonian quest of the Sumer and the era of pessimism set in, as shown by the famous epic of Gilgamesh, one missing book of which has just been found in the Nippur collection of the University museum.

MEANING OF "PURIM"

The word "purim" the name of the great annual festival of the Jews, means "lots." This feast commemorates the preservation of the Jews in Persia from the massacre with which they were threatened by Haman (Esther 3). They gave the name of "Purim" or "lots" to commemorate the festival because he had thrown lots to ascertain what day would be auspicious for the massacre.

COOPERATE IN BUYING AND SELLING POTATOES

Just to show that what should be done can be done, Wisconsin potato growers at their annual convention to be held in Madison Nov. 19-24 will exhibit and finally deliver to dealers or consumers several carload consignments of sorted and graded potatoes, harvested and shipped under actual field conditions.

Growers and dealers in the potato belt of the state are now making plans to cooperate in this venture with the Wisconsin Potato and Potato Growers' association. To supply a limited amount of table stock of this select kind, residents of Madison and adjoining territory will in communication with the commercial growers at leading potato shipping points.

At these points, growers having standard varieties of either table stock or seed potatoes will unite in filling a car for the convention. Each grower's potatoes will be shown separately and at the close of the convention distributed to the buyers.

It is believed that the plan will show the possibilities of overcoming the actual difficulties which the grower and dealer must meet from day to day in getting the crop harvested and delivered. As a war time emergency object lesson, this movement of graded potatoes, variety pure and relatively free from disease conditions, from the field to the consumer should be valuable.

To supplement the exhibit of graded potatoes, a complete line of sorting machinery will be shown.

SILLO QUESTIONS

26. How can the scaffolding be built? The uprights are made of 2x4's set 3 feet outside the foundation wall. Each pair of uprights is lashed together with two diagonal braces. About 7 feet from the ground nail 1x4 inch boards, 8 feet long, on each pair of uprights. These horizontal boards should be as nearly level as possible. Planks are now laid on these horizontal boards so that they can be used to walk around on. New braces and horizontal boards can then be added to the scaffold as they are needed.

27. Is it possible to build without scaffolding? Stave silos can be constructed without building a scaffold, but this method is not nearly so convenient, and is dangerous. In building without the scaffold, the door frame is erected and securely braced, then three staves are set up together. They are nailed together on the ground and fastened in place by nailing boards at the top, which are attached to the door frame. This method can be used to the advantage in erecting a one-piece stave silo.

28. How can I build a home-made door frame and a one-piece stave silo? Cut a 2x4 material fastened together with 2x6's mortised in the uprights every two feet, of one-piece material. In placing it remove one pair of diagonal braces opposite the point where the door is to be located. Now raise the frame to place, and by means of a carpenter's level make sure that it is perfectly square. Securely to the barn or scaffold.

29. What is the best way to set the staves? In either a home-made silo or a manufactured one, the staves should be leveled slightly. The silo always be set up with the widest dimension to the outside. Two or three men work to best advantage in placing the staves, one at the bottom, one at the top, and one in the middle. There should be provided a number of cranes or salt barrel staves to be used in holding each stave in place as it is set up. The staves are set up by beginning at the door frame and working around half way in either direction. The last stave is set opposite the door frame at the bottom. There should be provided a number of cranes or salt barrel staves to be used in holding each stave in place as it is set up. The staves are set up by beginning at the door frame and working around half way in either direction. The last stave is set opposite the door frame at the bottom.

30. How can I build a home-made door frame and a one-piece stave silo? Cut a 2x4 material fastened together with 2x6's mortised in the uprights every two feet, of one-piece material. In placing it remove one pair of diagonal braces opposite the point where the door is to be located. Now raise the frame to place, and by means of a carpenter's level make sure that it is perfectly square. Securely to the barn or scaffold.

WARNING TO FARMERS

Warnings are being sent out against representatives of companies which offer to buy supplies for farmers at unusually low prices and to sell farm products at attractive prices. Representatives of such companies ask the farmers to make a small cash payment and to give their notes for $50 or $100 additional. In return the company is to give its services in buying and selling for five years.

It is reported that some 700 farmers have already been caught by this scheme.

The markets division of the State Committee of Food Production and Conservation is responsible for the warning now being issued.

UNIVERSITY POULTRYMEN RAISE YOUNG OSTRICHES

After 42 days' incubation, five healthy young ostriches were last week added to the collection of commercial poultry maintained at the college of agriculture, University of Wisconsin. When they broke the shells and stepped forth into the incubator there was not much room to spare, for each one starts life about the size of a Plymouth Rock hen.

One dozen ostrich eggs were given to the university poultry plant by officials of the Madison city zoo at Henry Vilas park. Five have already hatched and signs of life are visible in the others.

It is not the intention of the poultry specialists at the college of agriculture to enter seriously into the raising of ostriches, chiefly for two reasons: the market for plumes is gone, and the birds require special care and excellent feed when kept under domestic conditions. It takes three years for an ostrich to reach maturity.

This is the first time, it is believed that eggs from ostriches in captivity have been successfully incubated. Even no less an authority on wild life than Cy B. DeVry of the Lincoln Park Zoo, Chicago, discouraged the attempts of the university poultrymen.

RULES FOR APPLE GRADING

The state department of agriculture has just prepared Circular No. 6 giving the rule and regulations necessary to be observed in packing apples under the new Wisconsin apple grading law.

The new law requires that all Wisconsin apples sold in bulk or in boxes from this time on be packed in grades and these grades be stamped on the box with the owner's name and address.

A heavy fine is provided for misbranding a barrel or for misrepresenting the contents by putting the good fruit on the top of the barrel.

This law has resulted in great benefit to both grower and consumer in states where it has been in force for some time. The consumer who wants a good article has for the first time been able to buy home grown fruit and be sure that it is what it is represented to be, while on the other hand, the grower finds a better market for a good, honest product than formerly because it does not have to compete with inferior fruit in which all the good fruit is on the top layers.

The state department of agriculture is planning to help the growers take advantage of this law. A grower who wishes to advance, an inspector will be sent out to help him get started grading and packing correctly. All growers and dealers should study the circular and familiarize themselves with the new requirements before the apple harvest comes on.

White Bread

The experiment has been tried. A dog cannot live longer than 13 days on a diet of white bread. Neither can a man. A dog or a man can live a long time on a diet of whole wheat bread alone. It is not the best possible diet for continuous service but it is better than a continuous diet of white bread. All you folks who gorge yourselves on white bread and imagine you are feeding yourselves are, in fact, starving yourselves. More persons eat much die of starvation than persons who get nothing to eat at all.

The man who thinks that he is better off working to death always finds time to take an hour off and tell you how busy he is.

John Voight spent Sunday at Plover.

A number of young people spent Sunday evening at the Peter Fergon home.

Jack and George Walter of Antigo and Tilla, Ida and Willie of Superior, and a dog or a man can live a long time on a diet of whole wheat bread alone. It is not the best possible diet for continuous service but it is better than a continuous diet of white bread. All you folks who gorge yourselves on white bread and imagine you are feeding yourselves are, in fact, starving yourselves. Plasnally Surprised

A long car ride Betty arrived at the home of a friend, with whom she had lunch. She ate heartily, for she was hungry. After lunch, the hostess asked if she had had enough to eat, to which she replied: "Oh, yes, I had more than I expected."

COOPERATE IN BUYING AND SELLING POTATOES

Just to show that what should be done can be done, Wisconsin potato growers at their annual convention to be held in Madison, Nov. 19-24 will exhibit and finally deliver to dealers, or consumers several carload consignments of sorted and graded potatoes, harvested and shipped under actual field conditions.

Growers and dealers in the potato belt of the state are now making plans to cooperate in this venture with the officers of the Wisconsin Potato Growers' association. To supply a limited amount of table stock of this select kind, residents of Madison and adjoining territory will in addition to the convention be placed in communication with commercial growers at leading potato shipping points.

At these points, growers having standard varieties of either table stock or seed potatoes will utilize in filling a car for the convention. Each grower's potatoes will be shown separately and at the close of the convention distributed to the buyers.

It is believed that this plan will show the possibilities of overcoming the actual difficulties which the grower and dealer must meet from day to day in getting the crop harvested and delivered. As a war time emergency subject, this movement of graded potatoes, variety pure and relatively free from disease conditions, from the field to the consumer should be valuable.

To supplement the exhibit of graded potatoes, a complete line of sorting machinery will be shown.
